SCHOOL OFFICIALS URGE $3,500,000 TEACHERS' LOAN

300 Leaders From All Parts of State Call on Legislature To Quickly Act in Financial Crisis.

VIRTUAL SHUTDOWN BY MARCH FEARED

Ad Valorem Tax System Inadequate for Needs, Speaker Tell Mass Meet.

A resolution calling upon the general assembly to urge Governor Rivers to borrow $3,500,000 with which to pay teachers and keep Georgia's schools open for seven months of the year was unanimously adopted last night by a mass group of Georgia common school officials from counties in every section of the state.

Approximately 300 county school superintendents, principals, board of education members and school trustees attended the conference where several members of the general assembly predicted "passage of a tax act with a broader base" than ad valorem taxes with which to carry out the Rivers administration's progressive program.

Headed by W. J. Andrews, superintendent of Stephens county schools and president of the Georgia Education Association, the superintendents and board members predicted virtually all the schools in Georgia will be closed by the end of February if more money is not provided by the state.

Assurance for Banks.

They asked the general assembly to adopt resolutions assuring the Governor that money with which to repay a $3,500,000 emergency loan and to pay the school appropriation in full will be provided, so that banks will readily lend the sum needed.

Refugees Learn How America Lives

Eight Youths at Monroe Make Hit With School-boys and Townsfolk as They Adjust Themselves

By RALPH MCGILL.

Eight German and Austrian refugees are at Monroe's very fine Vocational and Trades school. We found them yesterday—

Working in the shop, learning the plumber's trade.

Filling a deep wagon with corn shucks at the big barn.

In the classroom, studying.

These eight boys eager, earnest and ambitious to become Americans, arrived in Georgia recently. They are under the supervision of the National Youth Administration, but the government merely supervises at the request of the organization which pays for the expense of their schooling.

Excellent Additions.

They came fleeing persecution as did most of those who first came to America. The ships which landed at Savannah, at Plymouth Rock and at other points in the early settling of America, were immigrant ships. People who wanted opportunity and the chance to work made this country. These former citizens of Germany and Austria are excellent additions to the American melting pot.

The boys in school like them. The townspeople have met them and like them. They made friends well and they work hard at all the tasks other boys do. They follow the customary NYA routine. They work four hours and attend classes for three hours each day. They work side by side with boys from Georgia who also seek education and are willing to work to get it.

"What are our impressions of America? It is wonderful. You know, we were glad to get away from New York. It is fine to be here. Mr. Barron (President David I. Barron) is such a fine man. He made a talk to the school Sunday night. He told us, 'We have at our school Protestant, Catholic and Jew. All I want you to do is to be religious. I am not interested in how you worship God but that you do worship Him.' He gave us a great insight into the American way of thinking."

Americans "Informal."

They think, among other things: That American people are friendly and informal and nice people to meet and that they were kind.

That in America there is no obvious class distinction. "Here," said one, his hands stained with the workshop, "a workman also may be a gentleman. When night comes he takes off his work clothes, puts on good clothes and may go along Broadway or to the theater or restaurants or to libraries or to meetings as he chooses. That is not true in Germany."

When they had arrived and got settled in their rooms in the barracks, they were visited by dozens of the boys. A teacher came along and said:

"You kids scatter, now. It's time to get ready for supper."

"Is it the Police?"

The German boys, half-understanding, asked:

"Is it the police?"

The boys roared and called back the teacher to tell him the boys thought he might be the "police."

"They have fitted in well," said President Barron, one of Georgia's finest citizens, who has done such a great job with his school. "They are fine boys, they work hard and they carry their part of the load. I'm going to do as good a job for them as I do for the rest of the boys."

"These boys are not a part of the NYA in that the government does not pay for them. But they are under its supervision and take the same work. The NYA is the finest thing that has happened in this country."

Barron, a former Georgia Tech football star and later a baseball player of prominence, has built up the vocational and trade school at Monroe into an institution which has more than 600 stu-

The American way is being demonstrated at the Monroe school, where David Irenus Barron is president. There are at the school, under the supervision of the NYA, eight refugee boys from Austria and Germany. Their expenses are paid by a private organization and they are not wards of the government. They go to classes three hours each day and work four hours—and are enthusiastic about this country and its people. Above is a scene in the plumbing shop. Bending over the machine, left to right, are Herbert Bishop, a Georgia boy, and Helmut Strauss and Charles Hamberger. Behind them is Instructor Bob Butler. The boys are popular with their schoolmates.

COUNCIL FORMED BY NEW DEALERS

500 Meet at Behest of Lawrence Camp; Defense of President Is a Goal.

By JACK SPALDING III.

More than 500 militant Georgia New Dealers met here yesterday, christened themselves the Democratic Council of Georgia, and elected United States Attorney Lawrence Camp as their permanent chairman.

Ostensibly non-political in the accepted sense of the term, the council nevertheless set up an organization to penetrate to the farthest corners of the state, named various committees, among them one on primary elections, and planned monthly "town hall" meetings in each county seat in Georgia.

Camp, unsuccessful in his quest for the senatorial nomination against Walter F. George last September, said the watchwords would be "militancy and aggressiveness," in his talk accepting the chairmanship.

"We can no longer be passive idealists, but militant realists," he declared, "as the hope of the everyday citizen lies in our party." Saying that he realized the possibilities before them are such as "to make the responsibility of this position extreme," he rededicated himself to the active support of President Roosevelt and his theories of government.

"Unless the people themselves—not just the poor, but all the people—rise above the selfishness, the pettiness of mind and the indifference to human justice which have grown out of the greed of many national administrations, our democracy will suffer a complete destruction," he said, pledging the group to help the President in his fight "to protect the government from those who would use it for private and selfish purposes."

The meeting was announced

Nazis Formally Tell World They Will Build Giant Fleet

Germany Will Take Advantage of Anglo Pact to Equal Great Britain in Submarines, Arm 10,000-Ton Cruisers With Heavier Guns.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—(P)—Germany formally announced to the world tonight that she was taking advantage of the 1935 and 1937 Anglo-German naval agreements to build up to parity with the British fleet in submarines and to arm her new 10,000-ton cruisers with heavier guns. The guns will be of 20.3 centimeters caliber (7.992 inches), instead of 15 centimeters (5.906 inches).

Great Britain was informed of the decision last December 30. The following announcement was released tonight through DNB, German official news agency:

"In December, 1938, the German government notified the British government of its intention to put into effect certain rights under the Anglo-German naval agreements of June 18, 1935, and July 17, 1937.

"Friendly conversations took place in Berlin December 30, 1938, on certain questions arising from the German claims to these rights. Germany at that time undertook to make a communication in writing, which was done January 18.

"Accordingly, Germany will build up its submarine tonnage to parity with the member states of the British empire, beginning with 1939 until the agreed limit is reached.

"Germany will also arm the two 10,000-ton cruisers K and L now under construction, transferring them from Class B to Class A, to which Germany is entitled under the agreement."

Under the 1935 pact, Germany agreed to limit her total naval tonnage to 35 per cent of Britain's. Under the 35-to-100 ratio she undertook to observe a 45-to-100 ratio in submarines, the excess in the submarine category to be balanced by a deficiency in others.

The pact, however, recognized Germany's right to parity in submarines and there was an escape clause which allowed her to build beyond the 45-to-100 ratio "in the event of a situation arising which in its (the German government's) opinion makes it necessary."

SLASHED WPA BILL WITH RESTRICTIONS GIVEN ROOSEVELT

No Indication of Veto, Despite Limitations Put on Administration in Use of Relief Money.

ACTION IN HOUSE BRANDED 'RETREAT'

Presidential Order on Civil Service Countermanded by Final Vote.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(P)—President Roosevelt got his first bill from the new congress today—the emergency measure appropriating $725,000,000 to keep WPA going until June 30.

He found:

That the total was $150,000,000 less than he had recommended.

That congress also had loaded the bill with restrictions on political use of the money and had voted to countermand a Presidential order that would have blanketed WPA administrative employees into the civil service.

Congressional leaders said, however, there was no indication of a veto.

Compromise Measure.

The bill went to the President when the house approved, after considerable debate, the compromise measure worked out by a senate-house committee from the separate versions passed by the two branches of congress.

Containing the bill was full of inconsistencies, Representative Cannon, Democrat, Missouri, who favored the $875,000,000 the President wanted, told the house:

"This is the most remarkable retreat I've ever seen on this floor."

He asserted that Representative Taber, Republican, New York, senior Republican on the appropriations committee, had just remarked that WPA could cut its rolls by 500,000 if it purged workers who had been on them from the start. The Missourian added that the house had expected a 1,000,000 reduction in the rolls and that Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, had advised congress that even with a $875,000,000 appropriation 200,000 would be dropped the first month and 300,000 the second. There are more than 3,000,000 on the rolls now.

These reductions can't be made, Cannon asserted, because of a provision that not more than 5 per cent of those on the rolls at present may be dismissed before April 1.

ATLANTAN 'FOUND' BY PHONE CALL AFTER 23 YEARS

Twenty-three years ago in Richmond, Va., Mrs. Della A. Wright, of Oklahoma City, bade good-bye to her brother, Charles Mitchell Seward. She has not seen him again, although she searched the country. Her efforts were intensified when her mother died three years ago.

Yesterday, Mrs. Wright in Oklahoma City, received an official envelope from the War Department. She nervously ripped it open. It conveyed the news that Charles Mitchell Seward, 42, an attorney, could be found in Atlanta. Mrs. Wright put in a long distance telephone call and an Atlanta operator connected her with the residence of C. M. Seward, 3210 Gordon road, S. W. He is her long lost brother.

HUGE JAPANESE SUB IS HIT, SUNK

48 Are Believed Aboard Undersea Craft; Crash Announcement Delayed.

TOKYO, Friday, Feb. 3.—(UP)—The navy department announced today that a Japanese submarine sank during maneuvers in the vicinity of Beppu and that efforts were being made to rescue the crew.

The submarine, the I-63, collided with another yesterday in Bungo channel, the navy ministry said, and immediately went to the bottom.

Announcement of the mishap was withheld until today.

Forty-eight men were believed to be aboard.

The submarine was equipped with safety apparatus designed to be used in just such an emergency. However, there was a question of whether the collision pierced the inner hull of the craft.

The vessel was a modern ocean-going type of 1,635 tons displacement, built in 1928. The Kaigun-type submarine, of which this is one of a group of 12, have an exceptionally large cruising range—16,000 miles—enabling them to cross the Pacific and return without refueling.

The I-63, 331 feet long, is armed with eight 21-inch torpedo tubes and a 4.7-inch gun, and is powered by two sets of Diesel engines.

Bomb Explosions Rock London Subway Stations

LONDON, Feb. 3. (Friday)—(P)—Explosions rocked the heart of London early today, apparently marking a renewal of the widespread series of bombing activities have attributed to Irish Republican agitators. Bombs exploded almost simultaneously at daybreak in Leicester Square and Tottenham Court Road tube stations about a quarter of a mile apart in the center of London.

NEW OFFICIAL, 31, IS YOUNGEST MAN TO OCCUPY POST

Meteoric Rise in Politics Began With His Election as Speaker Pro Tem. When House Freshman.

RIVERS ACCORDS YEOMANS PRAISE

R. H. Freeman Named Chairman of Hospital Board at First Meeting.

Thirty-one-year-old Ellis Arnall, of Newnan, the youngest man ever to occupy the office and believed to be the youngest ever to hold a constitutional post in the state, became attorney general of Georgia yesterday.

The youthful former speaker pro tem of the house of representatives was named to the high post when Attorney General M. J. Yeomans resigned to become attorney and director of the newly created Milledgeville state hospital authority.

Chairman R. H. Freeman, of the hospital authority, said his board had prevailed on Judge Yeomans to accept the new post after "cavassing all of the lawyers of Georgia and determining on him as the one best equipped to guide the authority." Operation of such an authority is entirely new to Georgia and Chairman Freeman explained he and his colleagues felt they needed the services of an attorney well versed in constitutional law.

Fourth Yeomans Term.

Judge Yeomans only recently began his fourth term as attorney general and young Arnall is named to serve out the term, which will expire in January, 1941.

Freeman was elected chairman of the hospital authority at its first meeting yesterday. Sheriff Sid Howell, of Early county, was chosen vice chairman, and Ivan Allen Jr., of Atlanta, was named secretary-treasurer. The authority was created by the legislature to carry out plans for construction of additions and improvements to the state hospital and Milledgeville is making arrangements to obtain a loan and grant of $4,000,000 from the federal government to finance the projects. Freeman said Judge Yeomans would be the only paid employee of the authority. The chairman and other authority members draw no compensation.

In accepting Attorney General Yeomans' resignation, Governor Rivers said he felt the state was losing one of its best public servants.

As Ellis Arnall Took Oath to His New Office of Attorney General

Ellis Arnall, of Newnan, became attorney general of Georgia yesterday when Judge M. J. Yeomans resigned to become counsel and director for the newly created Milledgeville hospital authority. Judge Yeomans accepted the tenure of the new authority and Governor Rivers appointed Arnall to the post of attorney general. The members of the authority and Judge Yeomans are shown with Arnall as he received his oath from Governor Rivers. From left to right are Ivan Allen Jr., of Atlanta, secretary-treasurer of the authority; Judge Yeomans, Sheriff Sid Howell, of Early county, vice chairman of the authority; Attorney General Arnall, Chairman R. H. Freeman, of the hospital authority, and Governor Rivers.

FINAL RITES HELD FOR DR. J. B. ALLEN

Minister Buried in Decatur Cemetery.

Funeral services for Dr. J. B. Allen, 85, second oldest minister in the North Georgia conference, who died Tuesday in a private hospital, were conducted yesterday at the Epworth Methodist church. Dr. J. C. Hayes Jr., pastor, officiated, assisted by the Rev. W. T. Hunnicutt and the Rev. S. D. Cherry. Burial was in Decatur cemetery under direction of Brandon-Bond-Condon.

A native of Forsyth county, Dr. Allen had made his home here since his retirement from active work about 20 years ago. He entered the conference in 1880.

JEWISH WAR VETERANS WILL HOLD BARBECUE

Atlanta Post No. 112, Jewish War Veterans of the United States, will hold its mid-winter barbecue Sunday, February 26, at Lakewood park, it was announced yesterday by Mack Frankel, ticket chairman.

The event will be an all-day affair. A program of games will be presented and the barbecue will be strictly kosher, Mr. Frankel said. The committee on arrangements is composed of Louis Vrono, A. B. Reisman, Morris Flax, Milton Warnoker and Mack Frankel.

LEADING DISSENTER M'REYNOLDS IS 77

Supreme Court Justice Active Despite Age.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Associate Justice James C. McReynolds, the supreme court's leading dissenter, will be 77 years old tomorrow.

During the present term, McReynolds has dissented to 13 majority opinions. Justice Butler is runner-up with 11 dissents and Justice Hugo L. Black is third with seven.

Although a Democrat, McReynolds has voted against Roosevelt administration legislation more frequently than any one else on the tribunal.

Despite his age, he still drives his automobile and frequently goes duck hunting. He enjoys giving informal breakfasts for his friends.

Dies Here at Age of 66

WILLIAM A. NIALL.

WILLIAM A. NIALL, CIVIC LEADER, DIES

Native of Canada, Prominent Businessman, Lived Here 40 Years.

William Arthur Niall, 66, for more than 40 years a leader in business and civic affairs in Atlanta, died yesterday morning. He had been in failing health for several years.

Mr. Niall, who made his home at 326 Moreland avenue, N. E., was a native of London, Ontario, Canada, where he was born September 17, 1871. He was the son of a British army officer.

He visited America about 45 years ago while on his honeymoon, and after a two-year tour of the country came to Atlanta, where he established himself in business with the old firm of Niall and Herin, on Central avenue.

The firm went out of business in 1914, and since that time Mr. Niall had been a manufacturer's representative for the Hardwick, McGee Carpet Company, of Philadelphia, with offices in the Rhodes building.

Mr. Niall became a naturalized American citizen about 40 years ago. He was a member of St. Luke's Episcopal church and took a prominent part in civic affairs of Atlanta.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Carrie Turner, of London, Ontario; a daughter, Mrs. Walter M. Mitchell, of Atlanta; a son, Nelson T. Niall, of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. Duncan McKinley, of Atlanta; Mrs. W. C. Bayes, of Macon, and Mrs. Harry Couse, of Vancouver, British Columbia, and four grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

BORAH IMPROVES; GARNER RECOVERS

Senator Remains in Hospital for Convalescence.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Convalescing from an attack of grippe, Senator Borah passed a restful and painless day in emergency hospital.

A mid-afternoon bulletin from Dr. George W. Calver, capitol physician, said the 73-year-old Idaho Republican had a comfortable night and was not running a temperature.

"He will remain in the hospital for only a short period of convalescence," Calver reported.

Another on the capitol sick list, Vice President Garner, was reported today to have recovered from a severe cold. He remained in his hotel suite, however, avoiding a drizzle outside.

FEE SYSTEM OPPOSED.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 2.—The Hall county grand jury has recommended the abolition of the fee system for county officers, and the consolidation of the offices of tax receiver and tax collector.

CITY TO PURCHASE $50,000 SUPPLIES

Committee To Meet on February 13; $100,000 Goods Bought Monday.

Supplies and equipment valued at between $50,000 and $60,000 will be bought by the city February 13, Lloyd Walker, purchasing agent, announced yesterday.

This will be done at the second big meeting of the purchasing committee this year. More than 150 businessmen attended Monday when nearly $100,000 goods was bought.

Walker reminded bidders the purchasing committee would consider cash discounts in all future purchases.

Among items to be bought February 13 are 8,000 feet of fire hose, one tractor, one police patrol car, 12 police cars, a sedan for the assistant fire chief, 13 trucks for the construction department, two water department trucks and one for the electrical department, and $10,000 of drugs and 18,000 yards of dry goods for Grady hospital. The committee also will act on the purchase of nine trucks for the sanitary department which was carried over from the last meeting.

NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT. EATON, Ga., Feb. 2.—(P) Eaton's first fire truck will be put in service here next week, city officials announced today.

Veal Birds With Sour Cream

If second helpings are music in your ears, try this recipe for veal birds with sour cream. It is a sure repeater.

Veal Birds With Sour Cream.

Veal birds are usually made from veal steak that is cut fairly thin. A small bit of dry bread dressing is placed in the center of each serving piece and the veal rolled around it. The steak is then held in place by skewers or toothpicks. To prepare the best veal birds you ever tasted, saute them first in fat until they are evenly browned and then add sour cream and simmer until the veal is tender. The sauce that remains makes a delicious gravy without adding anything to it or further cooking. For each pound of veal used, allow one cup of dairy-made sour cream. This will make ample sauce. If you care to omit the bird style of serving the veal steak, prepare it by searing first, then adding the cream and simmering as directed for the veal birds. This makes a grand veal steak dish.

BUDAPEST LEGATION CLOSED BY RUSSIA

Action Warns of Reds' Growing Anger at Anti-Comintern Pact.

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(P)—Soviet Russia fired a warning round at the anti-comintern pact today by ordering her legation at Budapest closed and asking Hungary, the latest anti-comintern convert, to close her Moscow legation.

An official explanation said Hungary's decision January 13 to join the Italian-German-Japanese accord against international Communism "was thrust upon the Hungarian government from the outside."

The Soviet government decided that any diplomatic dealings with Hungary should be carried on indirectly.

Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff informed the Hungarian minister, Dr. Michael Jungerth-Amoth, that relations henceforth could be maintained through Hungarian and Soviet representatives in some capital other than Moscow or Budapest.

While this was not a formal rupture of relations it constituted a more serious jolt for Moscow's reason for the move was officially described as a conviction that Hungary was under a foreign thumb and had "lost its independence to a considerable degree."

The official announcement said that as a result of the Munich agreement partitioning Czechoslovakia, Hungary had been subjected to "strong pressure by certain states" and yielded easily to join the anti-comintern pact.

Moscow's act was only a warning blow, the Japanese, Italian and German embassies were still functioning normally.

Widow Receives Life Interest Before Division.

Henry M. Atkinson, founder of the Georgia Power Company, left his entire estate to members of his family, the will, filed for probate yesterday, revealed.

His widow, Mrs. May Peters Atkinson, is to receive a life interest in the estate, and after her death it is to be divided equally between her daughter, Mrs. Jackson Dick, and the two grandchildren, Jackson Dick Jr., and Henry A. Dick.

Richard Atkinson, of Boston, Mr. Atkinson's brother, received $100 a month for life. No value was listed for the estate.

Pointing out that he had made many gifts to charities during his lifetime, none of them was listed in the will. He provided, however, that in the event executors are unable to administer the estate as directed, it shall be divided equally among Oglethorpe University, the Georgia School of Technology and Grady hospital.

Mrs. Atkinson and Wade H. Wright were named executors.

SALLY SAVER'S FAVORITE RECIPE CONTEST

Have you a good recipe using dried fruits? Any kind of dried fruit? Although some variety of fresh fruit is available all year long, in the wintertime it is often more economical to take advantage of the bargains in dried fruits and some of the most delicious dishes may be made with them.

Please send us your favorite dried fruit recipes and if they are published in this column, Sally Saver will send you a prize of $1. Send them to Sally Saver today so they reach her by Tuesday and you may win a prize!

SALLY SAVER'S FAVORITE RECIPE CONTEST.

Our grandmothers used to believe firmly in the efficacy of eating raw onions for colds and many of you will remember the onion sandwiches and the chopped onions and hard-boiled eggs, salads that were part and parcel of Grandma's home remedy for the sniffles. Maybe it was a good remedy and maybe it wasn't but the sandwiches, with plenty of butter and salt, were swell.

The flavor of onion is important to many in a vegetable and meat salad, and in a stew or pot roast, and they have grown yearly in popularity as a vegetable. Baked with honey or boiled and served with a cream sauce they make a delicious dish for either luncheon or supper, and are popular, too, for a Sunday morning breakfast when something out of the ordinary is wanted.

Here are some tempting suggestions for onion dishes. Surprise your family with these new dishes and you will have no trouble with monotonous meals:

Onion Omelet.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup chopped onions.
4 teaspoons water or stock.
1 teaspoon flour.
Salt and pepper.
1 tablespoon finely minced parsley.
Omelet.
Beat four eggs until light, add four teaspoons water or milk and salt to taste. Pour into a hot, well buttered pan and stir briskly with a fork until the whole is well heated; finish cooking just above the flame, remove to a hot platter and fill with the onion mixture made as follows: Melt butter, add onions and stock and cook until onions are a golden brown. Add flour, seasonings and parsley and cook five minutes longer, stirring constantly. Spread on one-half the omelet, fold over and serve at once, garnished with sprigs of parsley.

Onions and liver balls is a healthy and appetizing dish. Miss Susie Phillips, P. O. Box 2209, Atlanta, suggests this recipe for dinner or lunch.

Onions With Liver Balls.
Mix 1-4 pound of ground beef liver, 1 cup of bread crumbs and 1 teaspoon of salt and 1-8 teaspoon of pepper together. Shape into 8 small balls. Peel 4 medium sized onions and cut into halves and parboil. Place onions in buttered casserole and place liver balls on top. Add 1 can of condensed tomato soup combined with water. Cover and bake in a moderate oven 325 degrees F for three-fourths of hour or until the onions are tender.

Mrs. W. L. Wright, 415 Forest avenue, Macon, Ga., sends her recipe for "the he-man's favorite onion dish"—stuffed onions. It is a pretty and very popular dish.

Stuffed Onions.
6 medium to large onions.
½ cup milk.
½ cup chopped ham (or chopped green pepper).
½ cup soft bread crumbs.
Dash black pepper.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon fat.
Remove a slice from the top of each onion and parboil the onions until almost tender. Drain and remove the centers, making six little cups. Chop the onion which was scooped out and combine with the ham and soft crumbs. Add seasoning and refill the onion cups. Place in a baking-dish, cover with crumbs, add the milk, preheat oven and bake at 500 degrees for 12 minutes.

Baked Hash Cakes With Potatoes.
2 cups chopped cooked meat.
1 cup gravy or milk.
1 cup mashed potatoes.
1 teaspoon chopped onions.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon paprika.
2 tablespoons butter.

Mix all ingredients, excepting butter. Shape into four cakes, half an inch thick. Spread with butter. Place in frying pan and bake fifteen minutes.

Hash Cakes.
2 cups pastry flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons shortening.
2 cups milk.

Mix together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in fat with knife. Still mixing with knife slowly add milk. When a soft dough forms, pat it out until one-fourth inch thick. Spread with stuffing.

Stuffing.
3 tablespoons soft butter.
½ cup maple sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ cup pecans (or other nuts).
1 teaspoon salt.

Mix ingredients together. Spread on soft dough. Roll it up until one and one-half inches thick. Cut off half inch slices. Place them, flat sides up and next each other, on greased shallow pan. Bake twelve minutes in moderate oven.

Green Vegetable Salad.
1 cup shredded lettuce.
½ cup grated raw carrots.
½ cup diced celery.
½ cup chopped onions.
1 cup chopped parsley.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon paprika.

1-3 cup French dressing.
Mix ingredients in large bowl. Chill two hours, stir several times to blend flavors.

Breakfast Puffs.
(Makes 12 two-inch muffins)
½ cup vegetable shortening.
½ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 egg.
1 cup milk.
2 level cups sifted soft-wheat flour.
2 level teaspoons baking powder.
Cream butter; add sugar and salt gradually, then the egg well beaten. Sift flour again with baking powder and add to first mixture, alternating with milk. Mix quickly as possible, as unnecessary beating makes muffins tough. Bake in buttered gem pans 20 minutes at 425 degrees F. oven.

WEATHER BELIES GROUNDHOG FABLE

Rain and Colder Forecast Despite Old Tradition.

Breaking with the ground-hog tradition, the Weather Bureau forecast occasional rain and colder weather for Atlanta today, the day after the ground hog failed to see his shadow.

Despite yesterday's lack of sun, the bureau's charts forced officials to predict much colder weather today, with readings in the low thirties expected by tonight. Yesterday's high and low readings were 60 and 44 degrees.

NASHVILLE TIMES SOLD.

RIVERS CHIEFS SAVE CIVIL SERVICE BILL

House To Reconsider Bill Tuesday; Prison Investigators Named.

Stung by charges that the tabling of the Maxwell-Elliott civil service bill was an administration defeat, Rivers leaders in the house of representatives yesterday succeeded in putting through a motion to take the measure from the table and set it as a special order of business for Tuesday.

Speaker Roy Harris, of the house, the recognized leader of the administration forces in the assembly, turned his gavel over to Representative David S. Atkinson, of Chatham county, and from the floor personally led the fight to have the bill taken from the table. On a motion by Harris, the house voted, 111 to 65, to reconsider the tabling of the bill which had been voted down Wednesday, 92 to 87.

Although supported by administration leaders, the bill under consideration is sponsored by Representative Hunt Maxwell and J. Robert Elliott, of Muscogee county, and L. R. Morgan, of Troup county, who are looked upon as independent members of the house.

Fishing Bill Defeated.
The house today debated several hours on Representative Randall Evans' bill to eliminate the closed season on fishing, finally voting down the bill, 102 to 38.

Senate President John Spivey yesterday announced personnel of the committee to investigate the State Board of Penal Administration as authorized by resolution several days ago. The resolution included particularly the operation, management and control of Tattall state prison.

On the group are Senators Don B. Howe, of Tallapoosa; Wallace B. Harrell, of Quitman; Everett Millican, of Atlanta; Meigs E. Groover, of LaGrange, and Paul L. Lindsay, of Decatur. Howe was named chairman. Groover already had been chairman of the senate penitentiary committee.

Other legislative business, briefly told:

Representative Yawn, of Dodge, introduced a bill in the house for equal distribution of old age pension funds to all persons more than 65 years of age.

Representatives Key, of Jasper, and Sams, of DeKalb, introduced a bill to regulate the processing of frozen desserts. Representative Grant, of Habersham, proposed a measure providing for refund of tax on gasoline and fuel oil used for farm machinery, grist mills, saw mills and airplanes.

Representatives Kendrick of Fulton, Chappell of Sumter, Allen and Salas of Dougherty and others, introduced a bill authorizing railroads to carry full crews.

A bill by Representative Wil-

GRANDMOTHER'S COOK BOOK

FILEAU RICE—A stewing chicken, 1 large onion, salt, pepper, 1 cup celery, 1 cup rice. Place the chicken in a pot with two quarts of boiling water. Add salt, pepper, celery and onion, chopped fine. Cook until the meat falls from the bones of the chicken. Remove the chicken to a plate and add the rice to the liquid. Cook until the rice grains are soft and the liquid has boiled away. Serve on a platter with the chicken in the center of the rice. This is a famous South Carolina dish.

"We live in fear that the Union soldiers will take what little that is left. Corn and rice are stored in the granary and we dare not leave it there. If it was taken it would mean actual starvation this winter. Mother and I devised a plan. We took the wool out of a mattress and filled the empty ticking with corn and rice and hid it in the attic. It is inconvenient, having to go to the attic every time we need corn or rice... but it is better than running the chance of losing it." (From Caroline Jenkins' Diary, Jan. 18, 1864. Copyright, N. J. Bond.)

liams, of Bacon, would make the buying, selling, possession, capturing or hunting of migratory game birds out of season set by the federal government a misdemeanor.

Representative Simmons, of Decatur county, introduced a bill calling for an increase in the state gasoline tax of one cent a gallon. This would make the state tax seven cents per gallon. The bill would allocate two cents of the gas money to schools. At present schools get one cent.

Representative Lanham, of Floyd, and others proposed a bill requiring applicants for bar examination in Georgia must be citizens of the United States and residents of Georgia for the preceding 12 months.

SCENIC HIGHWAY MEETING CALLED

Feasibility of Proposed Link of Historic Sites Here To Be Studied.

A meeting to determine the feasibility of the proposed scenic highway, sponsored by the West End Businessmen's Club, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the office of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator. The highway, planned to connect historic sites around Atlanta, has received the recommendation of many civic clubs and organizations.

MEN'S GARDEN CLUB TO SPONSOR PARKWAY

The Men's Garden Club of Atlanta will sponsor establishment of the proposed scenic parkway encircling the city and connecting various points of civic beauty as their first project, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, president, announced yesterday after the regular monthly meeting.

The club met in Rich's tea room. Other business included a report by Dr. Abercrombie, submitted to Governor Rivers, pledging the club's support to the state municipal park plan, and announcement of the date of the annual Atlanta Iris show, to be held April 27, this year.

Appointment of committees included C. E. Faust, membership; E. E. Schukraft, publicity, and Don Hastings, interclub relations.

DEKALB CHAMBER BACKS PARK PLAN

A resolution endorsing a proposal to create a state park authority to seek completion of the Stone Mountain memorial was adopted last night by the DeKalb County Chamber of Agriculture and Commerce.

M. A. Thompson, president, appointed Vernon R. Frank chairman of a committee to work with state and federal officials on the project. Members are Scott Candler, Mrs. A. D. Pardington and Charles E. McKinney.

ADVERTISING OF ICE TO BE STUDIED HERE

Distribution of National Campaign in Southeast Will Be Covered.

The Southern Ice Exchange and Georgia Ice Manufacturers' Association will consider a report on the distribution of national advertising in the southeast at the closing session of the conference this afternoon at the Baltimore hotel.

Approximately $3,000,000 will be spent by the national association in a three-year nation-wide advertising campaign, and the allocation of a pro rata share of this fund in Georgia and the Carolinas will be discussed.

Details of the advertising campaign were explained during the morning session yesterday by Guy W. Jacobs, of Steubenville, Ohio, president of the National Association of Ice Industries and business director of the national association's ice advertising program.

Mr. Jacobs pointed out that proper advertising is essential to the welfare of any industry and declared that as a result of a similar campaign in the last three years, the ice industry in America has shown a smaller percentage of loss than any other industry.

Mr. Jacobs declared that business appeared to be on a firmer basis in the country—particularly in Atlanta.

The convention will close with election of officers, naming of committees and selection of site for the 1940 convention.

The report on the national advertising plan for the southeast will be submitted by J. B. Mahoney, of Charleston, S. C.

ARNALL IS NAMED ATTORNEY GENERAL

announced the appointment of Arnall, who, although the youngest member of the law department, was senior assistant attorney general in point of service.

Attorney General Arnall is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Arnall, of Newnan. His father long was chairman of the Coweta board of county commissioners. His mother, too, came from a political family. She was Miss Bessie Ellis, of Union Springs, Ala., and her father, the late James M. Ellis, served many years in the Alabama legislature.

Young Arnall attended the Newnan public schools, Mercer University, the University of the South and the University of Georgia. He was graduated from Georgia, the No. 1 man in law school in 1931.

At the university he was president of the student body and president of the interfraternity council. He is a member of the Phi Delta Phi, legal fraternity, Kappa Alpha and the Phi Kappa Phi scholarship fraternity. He holds degrees of B. A., M. A., and L.L.B. from the university.

During his service in the legislature, he sponsored with Representative Stenwall H. Dyer the first drivers' license bill introduced in Georgia. He also sponsored a number of bills aiding war veterans and school measures.

GRAND JURY PROBE OF COUNTY RULE MAY START TODAY

for Investigation; Longino
tion of One-Man Rule.

Grand jury probe of charges of a one-man rule, waste and extravagance in county governmental affairs is expected to be initiated today.

Dr. Charles R. Adams, commissioner, Wednesday fired a bomb into a commission meeting, launching a caustic attack on county administration, striking out at resigned Commissioner George F. Longino and calling for a grand jury investigation.

Solicitor General Boykin yesterday obtained a copy of the Adams' statement for submission to the grand jury session this morning and Frank R. Mitchell Sr., foreman, said as a private citizen he believed the Adams' statement should be given full consideration. Other members were known to be giving serious thought to an investigation.

Meantime, Longino, who bore the brunt of the Adams' attack, said he had no statement to make as yet.

His friends, however, said he would give "a full account of his stewardship, welcome a grand jury investigation and defend his record as a member and chairman of the commission" in a public address and statement to be made after the February 9 election to select a successor for his own unexpired term. Any prior statement might be misconstrued, they said, and might have political repercussions.

Commission Chairman Ed L. Almand yesterday said he had no fear of a grand jury probe and that he personally would welcome it. He was emphatic, however, in saying he spoke only for himself. Adams last night said he did not plan to visit the grand jury session today unless requested by that body. He said his statement stood as he made it.

Dies in Dalton Hospital

MRS. M. E. JUDD.

DALTON, SUCCUMBS

Ex-Member of State Board of Control Dies After Long Illness.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DALTON, Ga., Feb. 2.—Mrs. M. E. Judd, 73, former member of the State Board of Control and one of north Georgia's most prominent and beloved women, died in a Dalton hospital tonight after several weeks' illness.

Mrs. Judd, a native of Brownsville, N. Y., had been a resident of Dalton since 1903, and long had taken an active part in civic and charitable affairs here.

In addition to her service to education as a member of the State Board of Control (now the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia), she was a member of the Georgia Forestry Association, and a life member of the National Congress of Parent-Teacher Associations.

Mrs. Judd is survived only by one son, Hubert Judd, of Dalton. Rites will be held at the residence at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and burial will be in Westhill cemetery here.

ATTEMPT TO SEIZE C. & O. IS CHARGED

J. P. Morgan & Co. Attacked by Robert Young.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 2.—(P)—Robert R. Young declared tonight J. P. Morgan & Company interests were attempting to seize control of the profitable Chesapeake & Ohio railway from him.

Young, who with an associate bought controlling stocks in the Van Sweringen rail system two years ago, said "Morgan interests" were attempting to add two members to the present 11-man board.

The New York financier recently changed C. & O.'s bond financing to an "independent group" at, he said, a $1,400,000 saving on a $30,000,000 issue. On Tuesday, he sent a telegram to Senator Robert Taft, Republican, Ohio, urging that the Cincinnati Union Terminal Company, of which Taft is a director, take the same step.

2,549 BUYERS SET RECORD AT MART

Attendance Mark Falls in North Carolina Furniture Registration.

HIGH POINT, N. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—All previous attendance records were broken at the southern furniture and rug market today when late arrivals brought total registration to 2,549 buyers. The previous high mark was 2,527 in July, 1938.

Although most of the larger chains sent representatives here the opening week of the market, two of the largest in the nation sent buyers today to swell the total volume of business to a point some exhibitors described as "surprisingly good."

Over 1,500,000 new houses have been built in Britain in about six years.

MRS. ROSIE BROCK DIES DURING VISIT

Carolina Resident Succumbs at Daughter's Home.

Mrs. Rosie Idillah Brock, 68, of Westminster, S. C., died here yesterday while on a visit at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Irow Gilliland, of 984 Central avenue, Hapeville, who is connected with the Paul T. Donehoo funeral home.

A lifelong member of the Methodist church, Mrs. Brock had been a resident of Westminster for the last 35 years. She would have celebrated her fiftieth wedding anniversary in October.

Surviving are her husband, A. J. Brock; six other daughters, Mrs. Cora Lee Dodd, Mrs. W. E. Simpson, Mrs. F. C. Simpson, Mrs. Lillian Boynton, Miss Edna Brock and Mrs. J. B. Smith, and five sons, E. J., Bone C., Roy A., Clyde G. and Doris T. Brock.

The body was sent last night to Westminster for funeral services and burial there at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

COTTON CONFERENCE WITH WALLACE FAILS

Congressional Leaders Unable to Reach Solution on Surplus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said tonight that a three-hour conference with congressional leaders from southern states had failed to produce any agreement on a solution for the cotton problem.

"But while there is life, there is hope," Wallace told reporters after the meeting which was called to consider means of clearing away an 11,000,000-bale accumulation of cotton.

The administration's farm chief talked with chairmen of the senate and house agriculture committees, Senators Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, and Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, and Senators Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, and Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana. Each of them has a different plan for handling the loan cotton, which all agree is depressing market prices and so retarding the administration farm program.

Senators at the conference said that Chairman Jones had agreed to consult members of the house agriculture committee about the various proposals and report back to them the best plan of action.

Senator Bankhead, who has suggested the government write off its investment on 4,000,000 bales of cotton and give this back to growers who curtail new production an equivalent amount, said "some plan must be worked out within 30 days."

Senator Ellender said he favored "freezing" the 11,000,000 bales of loan cotton so that not more than one-third or one-fourth could be released during any of the next few marketing years.

"I believe that would put cotton prices up a cent or a cent and a half above present prices," Ellender said.

HOSIERY INDUSTRY WAGE BODY NAMED

Rome Man To Represent Employers on Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A committee to recommend a minimum wage schedule for the hosiery industry, which employs about 140,000 workers, was appointed today by Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour administrator.

Those appointed to the committee included: Representing the public—Capus Waynick, editor of the High Point Enterprise, High Point, N. C.

Representing the employees—W. Cedric Stallings, member of the national executive board of the federation, Durham, N. C.

Representing the employers—John M. Berry, Rome Hosiery Mills, Rome, Ga., and R. O. Huffman, Morganton Full Fashioned Hosiery Company, Morganton, N. C., and Drexel Knitting Mills Company, Drexel, N. C.

U. S. Air Service to Britain Is Near

England Waives Agreement Restricting American Firm From Starting Sea Flights Before June

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The long-talked-of transatlantic air service between Great Britain and the United States may be under way within a matter of weeks.

This possibility was raised today when the British government waived a 1935 agreement that no American company should start such a service until a British company also was ready.

Previously, it had appeared probable that this agreement might delay the service until June at the earliest because Imperial Airways, the British company planning transatlantic service, will not be ready before then, although Pan-American Airways is expected to be in a position to start service late in March.

Juan Trippe, Pan-American's president, was conferring with State Department officials at the time Britain's note was made known, but he would not comment after the conference.

Britain advised that Imperial hoped to be ready to begin experimental service June 1.

The British note, answering an American inquiry, came two weeks after the State Department negotiated a six-month agreement with France for an air service to that country.

It had been hoped in official circles here that the French negotiations would have the effect of jolting the British into action, although officials said their real intention in getting the agreement with France was to be able to operate an air service along the southern route, via the Azores.

The British note said Imperial's route would be Southampton, England; Shannon, Ireland; Botwood, Newfoundland; Montreal, Canada; New York city. The service would be once weekly in each direction, and might be stepped up to twice weekly.

The United States is not obligated to follow the same route as the British. Officials said it was likely to make just one stop, perhaps at Botwood, Newfoundland, between the United States terminal and Southampton.

Officials hope an all-year service can be maintained, operating during the summer on the northern route and during the winter on the southern route.

NIGHT
PREVENTED

If your child often coughs at night because of even a slight cold—do this at bedtime: Thoroughly massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action tends to keep the air-passages clear, helping to maintain normal breathing through the nose, and so reducing mouth-breathing (the frequent cause of night coughs). Try it tonight—learn for yourself another reason why VapoRub is a family standby in more homes than all other medicines of its kind put together.

Five Points Blackboard To Show Trend of Safety Drive in City

Huge Three-Sided Sign, Neon Lighted, Planned by Traffic Officials, To Make Public More Conscious of Campaign Against Reckless Driving.

To make the public more "safety conscious," a huge three-sided blackboard, on which will be inscribed statistics concerning traffic deaths and accidents, soon will be erected at Five Points, Captain Jack Malcom, head of the Atlanta police traffic bureau, announced yesterday.

Plans to erect the board were made following a safety meeting yesterday at police headquarters when Mayor Hartsfield and a group of officials of citizens' organizations addressed members of the bureau in connection with the safety campaign now being carried on.

Arrangements to place the board at Five Points will be supervised by the Citizens' Traffic Safety Committee, according to Malcolm Fleming, chairman. The board will be illuminated by neon signs, to serve as a reminder, both night and day, as to the trend of the safety drive.

Compliments Police.
Pointing out that 10 days had passed since a traffic fatality in the city, Hartsfield complimented the police on the excellent record they had compiled since the safety campaign became effective with the inauguration of the 25-mile speed limit December 9, and urged them to keep deaths for the year under 25.

"You have done a good job, but your work has just begun," the mayor said. "Your objective for this year is to keep auto fatalities under 25."

Mayor Hartsfield asserted the city is not primarily interested in the revenues accruing from traffic fines, but rather is hopeful there will be less accidents and fewer cases.

"Traffic fines are only a drop in the bucket as far as city revenues are concerned," the mayor said. "While officers are expected at all times to enforce the law, the city is desirous that there be fewer cases and fewer accidents. In enforcing the new speed law, the officers save the taxpayers money because it reduces the death rate, which in turn reduces the insurance rates."

Concerning the new speed limit, Mayor Hartsfield declared its effectiveness was proved in that 36 states in the Union have a similar limit. He pointed out that railroads so emphasize safety that they never permit trains to exceed 25 miles an hour in passing through cities and towns, and added that the limit was even lower, 22 miles, in Washington, D. C.

Chairman Fleming, Irwin Woolton, representing the Atlanta Association of Insurance Agents; Charlie Bishop, of the Atlanta Motor Company, and W. H. Edwards, of the Georgia Power Company, also spoke at the meeting.

The safety meeting will become a regular monthly affair, Captain Malcom declared.

WEINBERG 'SUICIDE' MYSTERY REVIVED

Another Telegram Stirs Controversy on Death of Hines' Witness.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—While the dead George Weinberg's testimony was being read at the trial of James J. Hines, Tammany politician, today the controversy about his death continued, stirred up anew by another telegram to Governor Lehman from George E. Mulry, Mineola lawyer.

Mulry, who suggested to the Governor yesterday that there might be significance in the fact that there were no fingerprints on the gun used in the shooting of Weinberg, announced as suicide, wired the Governor again today to the effect that there was no evidence of powder spray on Weinberg's hands, as might have been expected if he had fired a gun.

Authorities scoffed at Mulry's fingerprint telegram, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey pointing out that in 20 years usable fingerprints had been found only once on a murder or suicide gun by New York police.

PERKINS MAY FACE HOUSE COMMITTEE

Impeachment Resolution Against Secretary Arouses U. S. Public

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The house judiciary committee considering impeachment charges against Secretary Perkins decided at a closed session today to offer her an opportunity Tuesday to tell of her administration of the Labor Department.

One Democratic member, who declined use of his name, said the committee felt that "the public had been so aroused" by the Thomas impeachment resolution that Secretary Perkins should be given a chance to explain her rulings on deportation proceedings.

Representative Thomas, Republican, New Jersey, contended in his resolution that the Labor Department was derelict in its duty because it suspended deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, CIO west coast leader.

The department has asserted that it was compelled to defer action against Bridges until the supreme court decided in another case whether membership in the Communist party was in itself adequate grounds for deportation of an alien. Thomas asserted that Bridges was a member of the Communist party, which advocated overthrow of the United States government by force and violence and was, therefore, legally deportable.

Hadassah Will Meet Here Tomorrow

Senior and Junior Groups Will Hold Three-Day Session in Atlanta; 150 Delegates Expected.

Problems confronting world Jewry, particularly the youth immigration movement which has become intensified by recent chaotic conditions in central Europe, will feature the program of the southeastern regional conference of Junior and Senior Hadassah, which convenes in three-day session at the Biltmore hotel beginning tomorrow afternoon.

Atlanta chapters of the units will be hostesses to the convention, while presiding over the respective business sessions will be Mrs. S. H. Lutsky, of Miami Beach, Fla., president of the southeastern region of Senior Hadassah, and Mrs. Leo Friedman, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the southern region of Junior Hadassah.

The conference will open at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with an informal Sabbath fireside chat ("Oneg Shabat") at the home of Mrs. H. Mendel, 847 Briarcliff road, N. E., which will be attended ed by representatives of both units.

The session will open with an interpretation of the Sabbath Bible reading by Mrs. Ben Brodie, chairman of the group, and will be followed by discussions on the general theme, "Palestine, the Rainbow on the Dark Horizon." Taking part will be Mrs. Seymour Hirsch, who will speak on "Ethereal Life in Palestine." Mrs. Sam H. Berman, who will talk on "From Balfour to Chamberlain," and Mrs. Charles Bergman, who will give a "Biography of Bialik," and poetic readings.

Entertainment features tomorrow night will include a buffet supper at 8 o'clock for members of Senior Hadassah at the home of Mrs. Louis Isaacson, 1074 Springdale road, N. E., and an informal party for the Junior Hadassah at the home of Mrs. A. D. Srochi, at 843 Springdale road, N. E. Arrangements for the event are being completed by a committee of which Miss Beatrice Eplan is chairman with Miss Emily Benisty, Miss Bessie Rubin, Miss Gertrude Coler, Miss Sara Rice, Miss Lena Diamond and Miss Dorothy Weiner.

Business sessions of the conference will open at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning with the registration of delegates at the Biltmore hotel. After registration, each unit will adjourn to meet in special sessions, reassembling at 12:30 o'clock at a luncheon meeting to hear an address by Dr. Glenn Rainey, assistant professor of English at Georgia Tech, on "Democracy's Chance of Survival."

The remainder of the afternoon will be taken up with business

Mrs. David Greenberg, of New York, chairman of the Hadassah Youth Aliyah and head of the Hadassah Palestine Committee, who will be the principal speaker at the banquet Monday night at the Biltmore hotel which marks the close of the annual convention of the southeastern regional conference of Hadassah.

meetings, a special program, "A Trip to Palestine," to be presented by the business and professional division, featuring the senior session.

Sunday Reception. Senior Hadassah delegates will be entertained Sunday night at a reception at 8 o'clock at the Standard Club, with several Jewish women's organizations acting as hostess. Included among them will be the Temple Sisterhood, Shearith Israel Sisterhood, Ahavath Achim Sisterhood, Nessah Israel Sisterhood, the Service Guild and the Atlanta section of the National Council of Jewish Women. Junior delegates will be guests of the Jewish Progressive Club at two basketball games, at 7:30 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock, respectively, the games to be followed by a dance at the club beginning at 10 o'clock.

The closing day of the convention will be packed with several events of interest. The program will open with a round-table discussion beginning at 10 o'clock and continuing until 12:30 o'clock when the two units will meet at a combined luncheon when an address will be made by Rabbi Henry H. Epstein, of Ahavath Achim synagogue. His subject will be "Israel's Wellspring of Courage."

The afternoon will be given over to a joint meeting when educational subjects will be discussed, one feature being the youth immigration movement. Following the meeting the Junior Hadassah will sponsor a marionette show which will be based on an original play on the theme, "Youth Aliyah."

The convention will close with a banquet at 7 o'clock Monday night, the feature being an address by Mrs. David Greenberg, of New York, head of the Youth Aliyah (immigration) committee of Hadassah.

She is expected to speak on matters affecting the interest of Jews of the world, emphasizing in particular the work being done by Hadassah in transferring young Jewish boys and girls from central Europe to homes in Palestine. The subject is one of great interest to the Jewish people of the southeast.

Entertainment features to be presented at the banquet will include choral singing by a group composed of Mrs. Charles Bergman, Mrs. Alex Freedman, Mrs. J. Freedman, Mrs. H. Mattel, Mrs. Louis Rittenbaum, Mrs. Beck Goldstein, Mrs. Ida Ziner, Mrs. Alex Sherman, Mrs. D. N. Meyer, Mrs. Leo Hirsch, Mrs. A. S. Chasin, Mrs. V. R. Beck, Mrs. L. Grodsky, Mrs. S. O. Klotz, Mrs. R. M. Travis, Mrs. George Smiley, Mrs. J. M. Rosenfeld and Mrs. David Levin.

Officers of Atlanta unit, Senior Hadassah, are Mrs. Jake Abelson, president; Mrs. Sol Klotz, first vice president; Mrs. Harry Dwoskin, second vice president; Mrs. Frank Gottesman, treasurer; Mrs. Mose Taylor, financial secretary; Mrs. Dave Levin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alfred Gundheim and Mrs. Harry Esserman, assistants, and Mrs. Maurice Golsen, recording secretary.

Junior Hadassah officers are Mrs. Rachel Glazier, president; Miss Beatrice Eplan, first vice president; Miss Pauline Hirsch, second vice president; Miss Adele Kuniansky, recording secretary; Miss Sara Arnold, corresponding secretary; Miss Sara Rice, assistant corresponding secretary; Miss Salie Lubell, treasurer; Mrs. Sam Atterman, financial secretary, and Miss Sara Tontak and Miss Lena Diamond, editors of the "Alarm Clock," official publication of the Atlanta unit of Junior Hadassah. An invitation has been extended the general public to attend the luncheons and banquet, as well as business sessions. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. H. S. Jacobs, Hemlock 8151, and Mrs. Jack Fryer, Hemlock 6943-J, for senior reservations, and Miss Miriam Orenstein, Main 8379, for junior reservations.

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 3, 1939.

THE GREAT ITALIAN WEAKNESS.

Italy is desperately weak in that vital part of a nation's anatomy known as the budget. Estimates for the ensuing year indicate a deficit of over $250,000,000. In the United States, where billions on the wrong side of the ledger have come to be regarded as more or less commonplace, a quarter of a billion in the red seems like so much chicken feed. But in Mussolini's country, with its slender and ever-thinning resources and fast growing population, it will keep the financial magicians working overtime turning liabilities into assets.

It is not surprising that information has trickled through the Italian barrage of words that Mussolini is nursing a reluctant desire to accept, indeed, even offer, appeasement to Chamberlain. That is, in exchange for financial assistance. It long has been suspected the Duce was playing at the end of the wrong axis. Hitler has nothing Italy needs—both being in the have-not category—while Chamberlain has everything.

Although the British prime minister is not considered to be a good poker player, being rather inept at bluffing, nevertheless he actually holds the winning hand—money. In all probability, he knows it.

A good healthy loan to Mussolini, unless perchance, the Duce is actually a two-spot in this exciting game, would do more for his cause than all of Hitler's bluster, or ability to wage war, minus the attendant risk of undoing his life's work of rejuvenating his country. Hitler's interest—as in the case of his predecessors in Germany—is toward the east. It is there, just beyond the border, that all the needed material resources lie to make his country a great self-sustaining force. It is doubtful that he will waste his substance in the doubtful Mediterranean venture.

In maintaining her armaments, much less to accelerate them, Italy will necessarily have to spend additional millions this year—millions she does not possess, millions she doesn't want to spend. The country has its financial back bent to the breaking point developing public works, mining, agriculture and transport, in a desperate effort to attain national self-sufficiency—an economic impossibility. Much has been "invested" in the Ethiopian and Spanish campaigns, with little likelihood of financial returns. On the contrary, the new African colony is a liability, not a resource in its present state, as some enthusiasts in Italy are wont to believe.

To put it bluntly, Italian economy is close to the rocks. It hardly seems likely a devastating war could improve it. It appears, therefore, that all the bluster, all the noise, with reference to Tunisia, and other points south, is merely talk and nothing more, to impress Chamberlain with the advisability of doing something about it.

In case of a clash with France it is well known in military circles that the French army in North Africa plans to take over Spanish Morocco in a 10 days' campaign, at the outside. Thus both entrances to the Mediterranean will be irrevocably in possession of the enemy and her ally, Great Britain. Nobody realizes this better than Mussolini. Will he plunge into a war involving Great Britain, the only country in the world in a position to alleviate his desperate position without bloodshed, without the risk of losing everything he has gained? It seems extremely improbable, regardless of the new crisis.

The last two title fights have totaled only five minutes or so, and it is not believed this congress will have to concern itself much with a roof over Joe Louis' hours.

"A man in Cambridge, Mass., is reported to have seen the same movie 144 times." Alas, who hasn't?

According to the latest picture pages, Fair Brenda, the glamor girl of '38, is running for a second term.

Those interested onlookers, hovering on the edge of the Spanish battle to the death, would be the Duce and the Fuehrer, a couple of souvenir hunters.

THE BASIC SCIENCE BILL

The basic science bill will, in all probability, be voted upon at an early date by the Georgia legislature. If enacted, it will require all applicants for a license to practice the healing arts, with a few logical exceptions, to have first attained a certain standard of knowledge, skill and ability in the basic sciences before having taken up the study of the art of healing. These sciences are set forth as anatomy, physiology, chemistry, bacteriology and pathology.

A board of examiners would be required, by the law, to conduct examinations to determine the applicant's eligibility before a license to practice could be granted.

The proposed law would not, of course, be retroactive. No practitioner of the healing arts, at present licensed, would, in any manner whatsoever, be disturbed by its enactment. Its purpose, naturally, is to raise the standards of practice within the state and maintain them—not to deprive any class of practitioner of the privilege to practice his profession.

The first requirement would be that an applicant be of good moral character. Second, that he shall have graduated from an accredited high school or acquired the equivalent amount of education, before he began his special studies. Third, that he has a comprehensive knowledge of the basic sciences, as enumerated, by passing the examination required in the proposed act.

People afflicted with disease are entitled to protection from the possible detrimental results of incompetent treatment—regardless of the method of healing employed and differences of opinion as to its effectiveness. It can scarcely be questioned that the first essential to treating the human body for disease is a thorough knowledge of the human body—from every scientific approach. And good character and a high school education would not seem to be unreasonable additional requirements.

A great deal more is demanded of the modern practitioner than was expected of his predecessor. It is probable even more will be required of him in the future. Unless the standards of practice are kept at the constantly ascending level of scientific advancement, the people, as a whole, will be deprived of the skill and ability to which they are entitled and have become accustomed to take for granted. For this reason the basic science bill should be enacted into law.

REVAMPING THE BIBLE?

For thousands of years scholars, of varying degrees of learning, have been tinkering with the Bible. At each step, down through the ages, "wise" men of the times have contended that some of the thoughts expressed, or sought to be given expression, in a particular verse, or chapter, or book, were intended to convey a different meaning, when originally written, than was carried out in the translation.

There have been only a few generally accepted versions of the Bible. In the year 270 B. C. a group of learned Jews translated the Old Testament from Hebrew into Greek. In the 17th century the King James Version, revised in the light of then available Greek and Hebrew texts, appeared as an up-to-date version. In the 1880's the present Revised Version was completed. There are, have been and will likely continue to be many other versions, with deletions, interpretations, additions and changes to conform with varying beliefs the world over. Even a so-called American version came to light a few years ago.

Last week William Louis Bailey, of Northwestern University, announced he had completed and had ready for publication, after 35 years' labor, a modern version of the New Testament—written from the sociological viewpoint. Dr. Bailey, who admits he's no theologian, maintains that much of the gospel was originally written in slangy Hellenistic Greek and Arabic and, for that reason, should be rendered in today's "journalism."

As an example of his so-called journalism, the word gospel—said to mean "good news"—has been translated into "You'd be surprised!" In all probability, most people, particularly journalists, will be "Good Samaritans" for no reason at all, has been changed into "good sport." The good doctor, it seems, muffed one there, since any grade school child knows the two expressions are remote from each other.

Other examples, such as converting "wise virgins" into "smart girls," "laying up a treasure" into "making a pile" and "repent" into "get wise to yourself," while understandable enough, are akin to dragging poetry into the gutter.

If these fake translations were generally adopted it would not only destroy the beauty of the New Testament, but would necessitate a constant revision. Doubtless many of the up-to-the-minute phrases used by the doctor in the early portions of his work are already outmoded. Probably the most satisfying phase of the new "version" will be its relegation to the junk pile.

Editorial of the Day

(From The Nashville Banner.)

A note on existence in bomb-proof cellars, recommended to England and sundry, comes from Tokyo following scientific experiment with these modern devices. In event of an international difference of opinion, as we understand it, humanity now will take to the caves until and while the storms of the new civilization blow themselves out among other things.

For three underground hours, entombed with 69 others, Dr. Heigaku Tanabe kept a diary. Fifteen minutes after the room was sealed, he made his first entry, continuing from that as conditions changed, including his enthusiasm for bomb-proof cellars. The entries read as follows:

1:50—Very stuffy. Air thick and congested.
2:35—Everybody yawning. I feel fatigued.
2:55—Slight headache. Others complaining.
3:00—Trying to read. Can't get the meaning of it.
3:25—Refreshed by a lemon.
3:35—Everyone's face has become very red.
3:45—Too tired to read.
3:50—Room like a steam bath.
4:50—We are all very thirsty.

At 4:50 one collapsed, and others were on the verge of fainting. No bombs fell, because it wasn't that kind of test, but it did prove to him, when it comes to subterraneanism, mankind is inferior to the mole—and it didn't require this sort of experiment to justify the 3:35 item.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

DEMOCRACIES WORSE OFF WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—As a new European crisis grimly approaches it is well to know the comparative strengths of the two sides. In the months since Munich, grandiose talk of French and British rearmament has created the impression of an improvement in the democracies' military situation. For the sake of clear thinking in the future, it had best be understood at once that this impression is deceptive. The truth is that, from a military standpoint, the democracies are worse off today than they were in September.

The bastion of Czechoslovakia has crumbled, and the German arms and forces which would have been needed to reduce it are now released for action on the western front. The Siegfried line is now complete, and in Spain, where Franco might have been chased with ease last summer, the Loyalist defense has all but collapsed. New raw materials are available to the Fascist nations, both in Czechoslovakia and other nations on the Danube. And while the internal affairs of Italy are increasingly difficult, Hitler's successful imperialism has given him a new hold on the Reich.

All these are desperate strategic disadvantages to the democracies—great items in the heavy price of Munich. There is only one way to counter-balance the German research and development which must be the aggressors. Meanwhile, the fundamental military situation has not importantly changed since last summer. The British navy and the French army still far surpass the equivalent arms of Germany and Italy. Military experts still believe that, in the event of war, the British and French may win in the end. But they still predict that victory must be bought at the cost of fearful destruction to the air.

THE IDE REPORT Now, as in the Munich crisis, the aircraft ratios are the key to the military problem. A report on this key situation has recently been made to authorities here which may be trusted as far as such information can be. It is a dark report indeed.

The reporter was John Jay Ide, one of those curious individuals whose life has shaped a single dominant interest. A newspaper New Yorker, with the taste and exterior of a man of the world, he makes his headquarters at the Ritz in Paris. There, for many years, he has acted as the European technical expert of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, an official body composed of representatives of the War and Navy Departments and of private aviation experts. Aircraft is Ide's dominant interest, and he is generally accepted as one of the real authorities in his field. Not long ago he was in Washington for prolonged talks with government technicians.

The net of his report was that Germany alone still has greater air strength than France and England combined. He confirmed the word which has reached here of German military planes capable of doing well over 300 miles an hour, the fastest in Europe. He stated that France had nothing to compare with these planes, and that, while England might have equally good machines in production, she had none in the air. He described the German research and production facilities as incomparably better than the French and British. In research stations alone the Germans have 2,700 men, whereas, even in this country, there is but one such station, employing only 450 men.

He admitted that British aircraft production was rapidly increasing, but was gloomier about the French. He described both French and British production programs as "coasting," and declared that the Germans meanwhile were just "coasting" and still turning out many more planes than the two other nations together. He offered no specific figures on production, but what he said only confirmed the impression at the national advisory committee. This is that the factories of the Reich are making 1,000 planes a month on a single shift a day, while the British are able to turn out only a few hundreds working day and night, and the French have no more than doubled their previous incredible record of about 60.

SELF-INTEREST DICTATES Some of the implications of the Ide report may be gleaned from its conclusion, which was that, if there should be no war, the Germans would probably turn to commercial aviation as an outlet. The establishment of additional German airlines in South America was specifically mentioned as possible. The significance of such an invasion of this hemisphere, with all that it would entail in propaganda and trade diversion, can easily be grasped.

It is time, indeed, for the United States to realize its interest in the outcome, in terms of such brutally practical problems as a German air expansion into South America. Once again, after so brief a span of time that the cold breath of old fear is still to be felt, the skies are darkening over the world. This time the United States should calculate the odds, estimate the results, and act as self-interest dictates.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

The bands may play
And the drums may roll—
But war is an insult
To the human soul.

The flags may fly
And the crowds may cheer—
But a trench is no place
For a son held dear.

Jingoes may scream
Of enemy vile—
But why should I kill
A lad who can smile?

The Fates
May Decide.

There has been brought home to this country, in impressive fashion during the past few days, the inexorable manner in which the fates rule destiny.

Developments have made more certain than before that, if a new World War does result from the rivalries of European dictatorships and democracies, this country will be in it, before the final gun is fired.

This is a matter of simple logic, based upon tangible and intangible conditions so plain that any who cannot see the handwriting on the wall, at this date, must be blind indeed.

President Roosevelt has revealed, whether intentionally or not, that this country is pursuing a policy of aid, through moral sympathy and material supplies, to the two great European democracies, France and Britain. In event of a war between the democracies and the Fascist nations on the other, that pouring forth of supplies from this side of the Atlantic could well be the deciding factor in the war.

But, if a situation develops similar to that of the last war, when would the United States do? You know the answer, as well as the rest of us. It would follow its supplies across the Atlantic, to fight the battle of a hard-pushed democracy, just as it did before. And, regardless of the outcome of such a war, it is greatly to be feared that totalitarian rule would become a greater threat to America than it has ever been before.

If the Fascists won, the future of America—not only the United States—may be imagined. We would, at the least, become economic vassals of the conquering nations. The vast natural resources of this continent would be eagerly exploited. And the fate of the individual Americans in that exploitation wouldn't be a matter of much concern.

If the democracies won, the end of the war would find them under a form of government that, for war purposes, would be to all intents and purposes itself Fascist. And it would be harder to shake loose than it was after the World War. Even then it was difficult enough to return to democracy, if you remember.

Time For Rededication.

It seems to me today is a time when the fate of the world, in so far as democracy is concerned at least, depends upon a rededication of all Americans to those ethical ideals of government to which this country is sworn.

Which means that every man, woman and child of this nation must rid their hearts and minds of selfishness. Greed and crime and cruelty and oppression must disappear from the American scene. All must determine each move in life with the welfare of the nation—which means their fellow citizens—as the primary concern. Personal aggrandizement or wealth or success must be subordinated, voluntarily, to the good of the whole.

If we don't do this voluntarily, as free men of a free country, we shall, inevitably, do it involuntarily as the serf units of a totalitarian state. And there is good chance that state to which our lives would be sacrificed, might be some other state than our own.

It is vital that, from this day on, the one thought of Americans shall be America. First, last and always. This is our concern, our only great concern, and to it we owe our riches, our loyalty and our lives, if need be.

It is the privilege of free men to give their all for those ideals they hold more important than life itself.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, February 3, 1914: "Following a stormy session of the general council, during which the liquor evil was assailed, the report of the police committee recommending permits to clubs was adopted, eighteen being given licenses and one held up, yesterday afternoon."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, February 3, 1889: "Harrisburg, January 27.—The most remarkable case that has come under the observation of the medical fraternity in this city for a long time is that of Mary Young, aged 12 years, who has been suffering from facial paralysis. This affliction is due to chewing gum, she having employed the use of her jaws so constantly for the last three months that the muscles of her face are powerless and her nerves are in a dilapidated condition."

Problem Children.

Evidence that American youngsters are tending to become "problem children" has been reported by Dr. Mandel Sherman, of the University of Chicago.

He said his study of university clinical records shows a growing number of children are becoming introverts and subsequently neurotics. He called it America's "changed social level."

He pointed particularly to the strange affliction wherein children between seven and nine years of age refuse to speak to anyone except their parents for three or six consecutive years.

Also, "explosions" causing this mutism still puzzles psychologists as well as the parents.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Groping NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Most Americans to-day are groping for some safe and reasonably decent way to keep out of any war that may break in Europe but finding only reasons why it couldn't be done. It isn't that this nation has any illusions about the nobility of Britain and France, whose many perfections in many parts of the world have been freely discussed, or that Americans owe a duty to prevent Italy from stealing country stolen by France and administered by her with the peculiar French gift for corruption in government, plus the French selfishness. And certainly nobody regards England as the mother country of the United States or feels any affection for the unlovable English people or obligation to help them defend their holdings and their lives.

The grievance and the fears which chill the heart are our own, and the whole nation would welcome any sign that Hitler and Germany, the aggressors, were willing to call it off, reduce armament, let us alone and live in peace. Should we have this country cannot permit Germany or Italy to lick Canada and then impose the sort of peace which the Kaiser's Germany intended to inflict had he won the Great War and which the allies instead imposed. Germany and Austria, Germany and Italy would be dangerous neighbors in Bermuda and the West Indies, and with Britain and France out of the way and, perhaps, even turned against us in resentment, the United States would be a set-up. It is one thing to read that the German press ridicules our apprehension and scoffs at the nervousness of a people protected by wide oceans. That does sound reassuring, but it doesn't explain away the probability of the future beyond a European war, nor is there comfort in the Fuehrer's well-earned reputation for revising his plans and revoking his promises. He seems to have a mission to hurt, defeat and humiliate the nations that have humiliated Germany 20 years ago for the joy of revenge and a plan to take them one by one, if possible.

Mysterious

There is something very mysterious about the Russian phase of this for always, up to a year or less ago, it was Russia and the Bolsheviks whom Hitler hated, but lately there have been queer signs. Russia under Stalin has imitated Hitlerism, and Hitler himself, step by step, has been forced to adopt for the German people the very form of government which he promised to save them from. Private property enjoys only a nominal existence in Germany, and the capitalist who thinks he owns his plant is merely managing it for the state. Let him try to exercise some of the rights of ownership and he soon learns. They now have little to compromise, and there have been hints in the news that a compromise is being considered, but regardless of that possibility, France, Britain, and, in a deferred position on the list, this country, the contemptible democracies are the subjects of his hatred.

There are many in this country who minimize the danger and prefer to suspect that President Roosevelt has created a war scare to blur embarrassments on the home political and economic front. This is a painful accusation and one which gives aid and comfort to Hitler, but it deserves a hearing and is being considered, by un-American or unpatriotic. If persons of that mind have information or arguments to dissolve the threats which others think they see in the state of things and the portents, they may save the country from a terrible folly, and one man's reputation or place in history is not worth a war.

Don't Blow

Meanwhile, be it observed, the President is making the decisions which commit the country to the job of bottle-holder in the democratic corner, should war come, and almost certainly to active help should things go badly in that corner. The people of the country read and hear about the nerves and see the leaders choosing up sides and have not been consulted and have no way of expressing themselves. War they certainly do not want, but nobody has been able to get the floor for them. Perhaps the American people, if consulted, would say that if Britain and France must fight such a war that is just their hard luck, and, after all, only another war in the long series of wars between jostling European countries, and decide to take their chances on the future, even though Hitler and Mussolini, with that one under the belts, might be much tougher than. For God's sake don't anybody blow a bugle now!

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

LEGISLATIVE TASKS A number of businesses in Georgia already are poised for flight should the legislature fail to adopt a tax structure and pass instead a number of nuisance taxes.

Nuisance taxes will drive business from the state. It is not an exaggeration to say this legislature can set the state back several decades.

The number of new enterprises begun in the state is low enough to cause comment. It is a fact that capital is not invested readily when the owner of capital fears new and special taxes and has no tax structure upon which to depend.

Any business, to succeed, must be conducted on a business basis. It must know what it may be expected to pay in taxes. Until it does know there will be relatively little investment in new enterprises.

It is estimated that a tax structure which had something of permanence about it would release a tremendous amount of capital into expansion of businesses already established and into new enterprises.

Those who seek to bring new business and capital to Georgia have an unvarying story to tell. Georgia's taxes are lower than those of North Carolina, for instance. Yet North Carolina's tax basis is not subject to great change every time the legislature meets. Georgia business is, however, subjected to a series of new taxes each year and constantly is threatened with others. That is the old story.

A sound tax basis ought to be fairly easy to establish. Business is not afraid of taxes if it knows what taxes it is to pay. A series of nuisance taxes will not bring in sufficient revenue; it will drive business from the state and when the next legislature meets there will be the necessity of putting a few more patches on the already patched tax roof.

Not only is education, health and social legislation concerned with taxation, but business, which pays the taxes to support the functions of government, also is interested.

EVERY FOURTH DAY

Any man of mature age who was rural born and reared, remembers the old custom of working the roads to pay for taxes. Each man could, if he chose, put in a couple of days each year at working the roads to pay his road taxes.

The American citizen pays today about one-fourth of his income in taxes to local, county, state and federal governments. It might be possible to make this more impressive today were each citizen compelled, each fourth day, to work that day for the government.

The American people and the American businessmen do not object to taxes as much as congress and the legislatures might think. What they do object to is waste and a tax basis which varies with each meeting of the legislative bodies.

The patronage system makes impossible any real efficiency or saving in government. Yet under the American system of government, patronage appears an expensive necessity and one which may not be so necessary as political leaders think. Legislatures which seek for economy rarely vote for measures which would bring about economy on any general scale. The old idea of statesmanship was to work for the general good of the state and the nation. It is perfectly true that idea has about disappeared. The modern representative thinks first of his local district and of possible reactions there regardless of what may happen to the rest of the state.

AS TO THE FUTURE

Nine years have passed since 1930 when the depression was at its worst. The New Deal administrators must admit that while many magnificent things have been accomplished which have become a part of the nation's law and life, that much legislation has failed.

Nothing at all has been done toward solving the problem of unemployment. Not a dent has been made in it. The figures are set at about 11,000,000 for the probable unemployed census. No attempt has been made to break this down into those who once had employment and lost it. Everyone, especially those who grew up in small towns, knows there always were odd-job men and others who never had any regular employment. There always has been an unemployed census of about 5,000,000 or more. Even in the lush years of 1928 and 1929 there were several million unemployed. Regardless of that fact, it does remain nothing has been accomplished.

It also must be admitted the national debt has been doubled and that business has not been able to make the expected contribution. There also have been flagrant abuses of the spending powers. That is nothing new. It has happened in other administrations. All this is fact and is offered as fact and not as criticism. There simply is no use for the Democratic party to insist on a perfect time at bat, so to speak, and go to the people with that claim.

It might not be such a bad idea, after all, to give business a chance in these closing months of the administration. We have had a deal of talking and much has been done about it. But there can be no real relief of unemployment until business is able to hire. And there cannot be that ability until business is given a chance. The present Democratic congress may do that. It is as well worth trying as some other things.

The Crows Don't Eat the Corn Where They See a Man With a Shotgun

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Keeping up with the Joneses has been one of the chief factors in all of mankind's progress.

When Mr. Jones plants dwarf evergreens in front of his house, he improves the appearance of every home in the neighborhood. When Mrs. Jones bought the first electric refrigerator in her set, the dealer's job of selling to the others was already half completed.

Progress of this kind may be due in part to envy and pride, but there is another kind of rivalry, much more grim and earnest, which is sponsored by hard necessity. It is the competition between enemies.

Even the dumb creatures, if we can believe men of science, developed claws, shells and other equipment as protection against particular enemies that threatened them. The bee's sting became inevitable when the first animal stole honey.

It was a thief, also, who sponsored the first rude lock on a strongbox. That lock insured the development of a more capable thief, and he in turn prompted the invention of a better lock.

So the competition continued, the servants of property meeting and checking each advance in the art of thieving, until the world's chief treasures were at last safe from everybody but the man on the inside.

The present great vaults of steel and concrete and electrical alarms are but the natural and logical and inevitable development of that first disregard of property rights.

As property met each new threat of rogues, so the art of defense has checked each new weapon of offense developed by war makers.

When the first spear was made, it was certain that the shield would follow.

Iron ships prompted the making of better guns, and better guns led to better armor plate. Poison gas came, and the obvious answer was masks. The submarine invited deep bombs. From the beginning of this deadly game the players have taken turns.

Now the world lives in dread of bombing planes, but these also have invited their own destruction. War makers have tried out their newest and worst weapons in Spain, yet men on the ground have won the victories as usual.

HOUSE RULES BODY BACKS DIES PROBE

In Meantime, Cox Blasts 'Outrageous' Cabinet Attacks Upon Texan.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, won the first round today of his fight for an extension of life and additional funds for his committee on un-American activities.

After three days of hearings, the house rules committee approved a resolution continuing Dies' committee until January 3, 1940. Dies had asked an extension until 1941.

No dissenting votes were cast. The committee's action thus cleared the way for the resolution to go before the house, probably tomorrow. Its passage there was predicted by members of the investigating committee.

Earlier, Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, had said cabinet attacks upon Dies and his committee were "perfectly outrageous" and had boomeranged to make Dies an "outstanding national figure."

Dies said he would do his utmost to continue "an independent, honest and sincere" inquiry.

"But I must warn you," he continued, "that no committee that carries out an honest investigation will satisfy those it is investigating, and no committee can ever do the work it should when harassed and attacked by members of the administration as our committee was."

Secretary Ickes once called Dies an "outstanding zany" and the committee's methods drew criticism from President Roosevelt and Secretary Perkins.

FULTON JUDGESHIP BILL IS INTRODUCED

Would Add Division of County Criminal Court.

Bill to create a second division judge of the Fulton county criminal court was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday by the Fulton county delegation.

It was understood another bill to create an additional judgeship in the superior court will be presented shortly.

The increasing number of cases docketed in the criminal court caused the need for another judge to assist Judge Jesse M. Wood, it was said. John McClelland, solicitor of the criminal court, has been mentioned as a likely candidate for the new post, if the legislature votes it.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"BUT ONLY GOD..."

Jess Walton had 20 men over at his home the other evening for a venison dinner, finishing up, I believe he told us, the last portion of the 210-pound buck he killed in the annual Pisgah Forest drive last November, this particular buck being one of the three largest deer killed last season out of a total of 685. The venison was the piece de resistance of a wonderful dinner in that well-nigh incomparable den and recreation suite which Jess has developed in the attic of his home. I dare not allow myself to start in the direction of describing the charm of that attic with its surpassing wealth of fishing and hunting paraphernalia—you have to see it to appreciate it.

After the wonderful dinner, which was directed by the skillful eye and hand of Mrs. Walton, Jess took charge and revealed himself a toast master not second to Gene Black or Mel Wilkinson. He called on every man present for a talk, but his introductions proved the feature of the delightful two hours of table talk. At 11 o'clock he changed the order of business and showed us a motion picture of the recent hunting expedition on which he killed this prized buck.

Himself a master amateur photographer, Mr. Walton managed in that 400 feet of film to get some of the greatest winter mountain scenery I have ever seen. He showed us pictures of his party wading, barefoot, streams on jagged sides of Mt. Pisgah at altitudes between five and six thousand feet above sea level, with the rocks hanging in fastoons of ice and the whole mountain covered with snow, and the temperature registering zero. With his car frozen tight, he had to spend a night on the trail going up to the reservation, and at dawn he made a series of pictures including the topmost reaches of Mt. Pisgah. This picture is in color, and I only wish you could see the dazzling beauty of that scene with the radiant touch of the rising sun. Every color is gloriously blended in that handiwork of God.

"As I stood that morning at dawn, looking upon the panorama of sky and mountain and valley, I thought anew," said Mr. Walton, "of that revealing line, 'But only God...'" "Only God can make a tree, only God can make the sky, only God can make a mountain, only God can make a river, only God can make the sun... only God!" Selah.

RELIGIOUS PROGRAMS PLANNED FOR MONROE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MONROE, Ga., Feb. 2.—Though Monroe's fifth annual religious chautauqua is still two months distant, plans for the event, to be held April 10-14, inclusive, already are taking shape, according to Ed A. Caldwell, editor of the Walton News and leader in the movement.

The religious chautauqua, which is sponsored annually by the Young Men's Christian League here, this year will feature a number of special programs. One will be Brenau College Night, with grand opera numbers to be presented by Brenau students. Another will feature the University of Georgia, with Dr. Harmon Caldwell as the principal speaker, and with university singers and musicians, under the direction of Hugh Hodgson, appearing. A third college program will feature G. S. C. W., with student talent from Milledgeville. Other programs will feature the Salvation Army, with a group from Atlanta headed by Major Sidney Cox, and "Song Night."

STOP Baldness AT THESE THREE POINTS

Is your scalp replacing the hair which falls or is your hair getting thinner and thinner at the (1) temples; (2) frontal point or (3) crown? It is natural for a certain amount of hair to fall each day—but it is equally natural for new hair to replace the hair which falls. Unless you help your scalp to replace the hair it sheds—baldness is sure to overtake you!

Decide today to avoid baldness—to save your hair. Thomas can help you by eliminating local infection—such as dandruff (which keeps hair from growing naturally). More than 1600 men each day are overcoming scalp troubles, stopping abnormal hair loss, and re-growing hair on thin and bald spots by the reliable proved Thomas method. You, too, can have a good head of hair. Call today for a complete scalp examination—no charge or obligation.

Wednesday by the United States attorney, and was attended by persons from approximately 120 Georgia counties.

The council adopted resolutions commending all New Deal measures, including the wage-hour bill, as helpful to the south, and called on the President and the Georgia delegation in congress to adjust freight rate differentials, lower tariffs, and sponsor a bill to have the federal government bear the full brunt of old-age insurance. No mention of the anti-lynching bill was made.

Shortly after Camp's nomination by Felix Williams, of Swainsboro, and his unanimous election by acclamation as permanent chairman, copies of the "Georgia Homestead," weekly New Deal organ, were brought into the hall, bearing a front-page likeness of Camp as the new chairman.

Two Protests.

Only two events occurred to mar the scheduled smoothness of the meeting. One was a protest entered by Harry Strozler, of Macon, against the council's condemnation of "all subversive activity, from whatever source it may come."

The other was a fervid speech by William G. McRae, former Townsend Plan candidate for the senate, who objected to the group's endorsement of $30 monthly old-age pensions, payable entirely by the federal government. McRae's resolution, proposing that the Georgia legislature match federal grants dollar for dollar to pay the aged, was referred to a committee on resolutions for further study. Strozler's motion that the objectionable words be stricken from the record was carried, after he characterized the phrase as "smacking of witch-burning and American Legion convention resolutions."

Introduced by Strozler, Judge Blanton Fortson, Athens jurist, and a 1936 candidate for governor, told the crowd in the day's keynote speech that the meeting was called to rally support for the President.

Prior to Judge Fortson's selection as temporary chairman, Boyd Sloan, of Gainesville, expressed in a resolution the purpose of the meeting.

Attacks on Leaders.

"We view with increasing apprehension the attacks upon our leaders by men who call themselves Democrats, but whose activities and utterances, if unopposed, can only lead to our party's destruction, to the repeal of liberal measures recently enacted for national benefit, and to a return to power of those who consider government but an instrument of privilege for favored sections and classes," the resolution read in part.

Judge Fortson said that "it ought not to be necessary for the rank and file of Georgia Democrats to have to come to the defense of a Democratic President who has done more for their state and section than any other President since the Civil War. But it would seem to be not only necessary but urgent if his policies, in which we so ardently believe, are not to be discarded, and the measures he sponsored destroyed."

South's Struggle. He reviewed the south's struggle for social and economic improvement since Reconstruction Days, and said President Roosevelt was "our first real friend" since those days, adding that high tariffs and unequal freight rates have served to batter down economic development in the south.

"As long as we have a tariff and are a predominantly agricultural section, I can see no way out of our difficulties without the continuing aid of the federal government to our farmers, to our schools and to our incapacitated," he said.

"There are thousands of Georgians who have observed the President carefully, who have appraised him well, who believe in him and his policies, and they are determined that neither shall be destroyed, for they—with you—believe that through this man and his policies will come a greater south and a greater nation."

Placed on the executive committee of the council yesterday were B. M. Pollock, William H. Hayley, Clarence Vaughn, Harvey J. Kennedy, Frank Twitty, Hal C. Hutchins, Judge Fortson, William Schley Howard, Turner Smith, Pete Morgan, Johnnie J. Jones, Ivan Allen Sr., Joe King, Bill Ward, John Ferguson, Boyd Sloan, George Scheer, R. F. Scarborough, Fred Booker and Alton Harvey. Congressional district chairman of the council are Cleon Mobley, first district; Vance Custer, second; O. P. Johnson, third; Wallace Gray, fourth; Kenneth Campbell, fifth; Frank C. Lewis, sixth; Chastine Parker, seventh; Wright Izlar, eighth; Herbert Edmondson, ninth; and Arnold Ansley, tenth.

Camp said he would appoint county chairmen later.

SECRET CODES AND CIPHERS

Diplomats and soldiers, lovers, spies, espionage agents and criminals—all have used and do use secret means of writing messages intended to defy reading by enemies or strangers. Codes, ciphers and secret means of conveying information have been used from earliest times. But the cleverest and most complicated methods can be solved by experts who patiently unravel the secret meaning.

The new booklet "Secret Writing" just prepared by our Service Bureau at Washington gives a wealth of information on the subject, shows how secret writings are constructed, and how to go about finding the "key" to such writings.

FRENCH SENATOR TO SEEK ACCORD WITH INSURGENTS

Mission Semi-Official, Diplomatic Sources Say;
Is Personal Friend of Franco; Armistice Asked

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Senator Leon Berard, personal friend of General Franco, left Paris tonight on a semi-official mission which diplomatic sources said might result in recognition of Insurgent Spain by France.

Berard was to go directly to Burgos.

Even after the senator left Paris after telling friends of his mission, the foreign office declined to confirm that his journey was the first step in a possible establishment of diplomatic relations between Burgos and Paris.

In the fashion of British Prime Minister Chamberlain, Berard carried an umbrella which he termed "standard equipment on the kind of a trip I am making." Then he added more seriously, "I am going down there to try to arrange better relations between the two countries."

Premier Daladier was reported to have approved Berard's journey during a conference with Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet this afternoon.

Berard was reported to have defined his mission as twofold.

1. To discuss with Franco conditions under which some kind of diplomatic and commercial accord might be reached.

2. To discuss the present program in northern Catalonia where the Insurgent advance threatened to shove Spanish government soldiers onto French soil in mass retreat.

It was reported early today in diplomatic quarters that France had opened negotiations for an armistice in Catalonia which, it was understood, would provide for surrender of some government troops.

LOYALIST RESISTANCE REPORTED COLLAPSING

BARCELONA, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Loyalist resistance tonight was reported to have collapsed along the entire Catalonian battle front as General Franco's Nationalist columns surged up the Segre valley and threatened to trap 250,000 Loyalists between the seacoast and the French border.

The fall of Vich, guarding the upper end of the rich Ter valley and the military key to the remaining areas of Catalonia still under Republican control, was regarded by military experts as tantamount to the smothering of the last important Loyalist resistance.

Texas in a Dither Over Quadruplets

GALVESTON, Texas, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Gifts and congratulations continued to pour in today for the quadruplet baby girls born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Badgett.

The house of representatives at Austin congratulated the parents and extended best wishes. Citizens of Galveston talked about building a home for the quadruplets, and, somewhat similar to the case of the Dionne quintuplets, the attending physician, Dr. W. J. Jenkins, was asked to handle the family's affairs.

Eddie Cantor, the comedian, sent a basket of flowers and said he "must speak to Ida about this."

RAIL LABOR CHIEF RAPS ICC POLICIES

Criticizes Rate Decreases in Prosperous Times, Increases During Slumps.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission was accused by a railway labor leader today of having "manhandled" railroad rate structures.

George Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, criticized the ICC for reducing rail rates during prosperous periods and raising them as business slumped.

He made the statements while expressing opposition before the house interstate commerce committee to a transportation bill by Chairman Lea, Democrat, California, calling for expansion and reorganization of the ICC.

Harrison said: "Unless something is done to rationalize it and put it on a sound basis, we inevitably face government operation and ownership of the railroads."

He conducted a business in title abstracts for several years, and was an officer in the Presbyterian church of St. Joseph, Mo., where he was born.

Theaters Promise Best Pictures Presented Here in Many a Moon

Fox Shows 'Jesse James'; Loew's, 'Topper Takes Trip'; Rialto, 'Listen, Darling'; Capitol, 'Mr. Moto's Last Warning'; Roxy, 'His Exciting Night.'

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

The movie press agents who drop around every week, usually more than once, to see their pictures get mentioned in the news columns assure us the current lot of motion picture fare is the best in some time.

At the Fox, the story of Jesse James is told on the screen with handsome Tyrone Power in the title role. Don't expect it to stick absolutely to facts, the press agents say, and you will find it worthwhile.

Those of you who remember "Topper," the ultra comic comedy of two years ago, will be interested in "Topper Takes a Trip," which Loew's Grand is billing this week. Roland Young, Constance Bennett and Billie Burke will again be seen in the sequel. Cary Grant, who officially is not in the cast, will be seen in just enough of the original film to connect the two stories.

Judy Garland sings the "Bumpy Road to Love" and other novelty numbers at the Rialto in "Listen, Darling," a light comedy with music, which has been brought back. Freddie Bartholomew, Mary Astor and Walter Pidgeon are in the cast.

"Mr. Moto" begins new adventures at the Capitol opening Sunday with a stage show. The Roxyettes are sharing co-billings with the Randall Sisters in the vaudeville headliner at the Roxy opening tomorrow.

"JESSE JAMES"

Jesse James comes to life on the Fox screen today in the person of Tyrone Power and in a Hollywood version that makes the outlaw a man more sinned against than sinner.

The story "Jesse James" deals with the romantic side of the outlaw's life. And in Hollywood version, at least, answers the questions: "Why did he kill? How did he men regard him? Did he love his children? Did he drink?"

To answer these questions writers perused every book written about Jesse James, private collections, newspapers, periodicals and the files of Pinkerton's detective agency, which spent so many years attempting to capture the outlaw.

The picture stars Powell, Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly, Randolph Scott and John Carradine. It was filmed in color.

"TOPPER TAKES TRIP"

SHOWS AT LOEW'S

A hilarious sequel to "Topper" comes to the Loew's theater in Love, "Zing Went the Strings of My Heart" and "Ten Pins in the Sky."

RANDALL SISTERS, ROXYETTES AT ROXY

Girls galore flock on the Roxy stage in the new show opening at that theater tomorrow. Besides the Roxyettes in an entirely new program of dances, the forthcoming bill will feature the Randall Sisters and other acts in which the girls predominate.

The Roxyettes will feature as their novelty number a dance in which they appear on large balls while Ruth, Shirley and Bonnie Randall come back south to show the folk down here just what made them successful on the New York stage and on Al Piece's radio review.

Comedy is not lacking on the show. Earl LaVerne and Helen Ware entertain with an amusing act in which laughs are tunelessly blended with music. Fenwick and Cook knock one another about to the delight of those who view them while Bryant, Rains and Young present an artistic dance act in which one man tosses about two good-looking girls in an almost nonchalant manner.

On the screen, Charlie Ruggles cavorts through light piece of nonsense called "His Exciting Night." The Universal News and M. Segal's orchestra round out the program.

"MR. MOTO" FILM TO OPEN AT CAPITOL

"Mr. Moto's Last Warning," starring Peter Lorre, Ricardo Cortez, Virginia Field and John Carradine, opens Sunday at the Capitol theater.

On the stage, Joe and Rene Howard, musical comedy stars, head the vaudeville acts which will include music, novelty and variety. The Rixfords, hand-to-hand balancers and stated to be America's most perfect men, will be seen in a splendid acrobatic offering.

Helen Doyle, the radio singing star, will sing, and Hal and Baby Crider will present their unusual offering of "Everything Topsy Turvy."

The closing act features Albert

Powell & Company on the trapeze.

"Mr. Moto's Last Warning" will offer the famous Japanese sleuth in the adventures for which he is famous. Unlike many other screen detectives, Moto likes to fight when it is necessary, and Moto fans are in for real excitement when they see this latest offering.

"TAILSPIN" PREMIERE IS FOX PREVIEW

The story of women who fly is told for the first time in "Tailspin," which will be given a world premiere showing at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Fox theater.

Starring Alice Faye, Constance Bennett and Nancy Kelly, the film is concerned with their adventures in the sky, the thrill that comes with their split-second escapes and the heart-throbs behind their spectacular lives.

SPIITALNY REMAINS AT PARAMOUNT

The Paramount theater is holding over Phil Spitalny and his all-girl "Hour of Charm" orchestra for another two days.

Spitalny and his girls have been greeted with a tremendous response, and the Paramount decided to hold the band through tomorrow night.

The featured entertainers of the show include: Miss Evelyn Kay, concert mistress and violin soloist; Maxine, the girl with the haunting voice; the Three Little Words, a harmony trio singing rhythm numbers, and Ginger Harman, the singing, swinging, dancing jitterbug of the show.

This company of 30 girls, led by Phil Spitalny, presents a show that has never been equaled in Atlanta.

RHODES PRESENTS "IDIOT'S DELIGHT"

Robert Sherwood's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "Idiot's Delight," comes to the screen at the Rhodes theater today for a week's engagement, with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in the roles created by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

Clarence Brown directed and a cast of notable players appears in support of the stars. Among them are Edward Arnold, Charles Coburn, Joseph Schildkraut, Burgess Meredith, Laura Hope Crews and Fritz Feld with a group known as "Gable's Glamour Girls," who dance with him in a burlesque number.

MRS. VINSON IS MOVED HOME FROM HOSPITAL

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Carl Vinson, wife of Georgia's Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, today was removed to her home in Washington from Walter Reed General hospital, where she has been confined more than three months suffering from pneumonia and heart trouble.

She was reported resting well at her home after her removal there in an ambulance.

"PROFESSOR MAMLOCK"

AT TENTH STREET

The Russian movie, "Professor Mamlock," has been booked for three performances at the Tenth Street theater over the week end.

The opening performance will be given at 11 o'clock tomorrow night and the theater will be open from 10 until 3 o'clock Sunday.

The drama depicts the horrifying details of Nazi persecution of German minorities. It has been selected as one of the best films of the year by New York critics.

A physician has given a collection of 200 varieties of marble to the California Academy of Sciences.

INSTALLMENT XXVII

"I never wanted to hurt you. I know too well what it means to be hurt. Shall we go back now?" Outside the door of her room Jay held Alix's hand and said, "Maybe it's just as well. I'd probably let you down. I'm not very steady. But steadiness and honesty are characteristics you've taught me to wish to cultivate and I'm going to begin tomorrow. Say good-bye to Bernice and Don for me. Too mad for Bernice. She could hear our wedding bells. But there's still Palm Beach next winter and Mrs. Harvey's little boy Jay will be there, waiting, and in love, in case you're interested."

He grinned. "Hope is hard to kill. Or maybe, in my case, it's conceit. Good-bye, darling."

She watched him walk down the long, carpeted hall--and out of her life.

She looked up. "There is nothing more to say after you've said good-bye. I can't. I don't love him enough in the first place, and in the second place, I can't. He's happy with a man who plays his life away. I'm not from that stock, Bernice. I think people should have a purpose. Jay hasn't any. Are you angry and disappointed with me?"

She smiled. "But now you can go with Don and me on the cruise we plan to take in the winter. Would you like that?"

"You're much too good to me, Bernice. And she thought, 'I want nothing except Kurt...'"

When Bernice left, Alix went out on the balcony again, thinking, "Kurt, where are you to-night?" Words flung to the sea...

"Where are you? Why couldn't you have loved me when I love you so much? Everything has been offered except the one thing I want most--you. You have a purpose, Kurt, and high standards and ideals."

They left in the morning. As the car pulled away from the hotel, she glanced back, thinking that the past three weeks had been the most glamorous weeks she had ever known. Nor would she forget Jay, debonair and ardent. Jay was her playmate, she thought, Eddie her friend, Kurt her love.

Motoring south, they stopped in New York for a few days though Alix would have preferred going directly home, knowing that New York would still be haunted with Kurt and their one almost perfect evening there.

This was not living, she often thought. This was merely going through the motions of living though neither Don nor Bernice suspected. They were proud of her and took her everywhere. And in New York, too, there were scores of new people to meet, more parties, and young men attracted by her detachment with whom she danced in night clubs and on hotel roofs, who sent her flowers, and asked to see her again. She would remember none of them.

Where were Kurt and Gina here? She asked herself that question often that week. To see him again... To see him again... Why of all men in the world did it have to be her?

They arrived at Ivy House late one afternoon and Nancy and Ted were there to greet them. How good it was to be in Ted's arms again!

"We went down to see Tuck and she's fine," he said, still holding his sister closely. "She's keeping an album of your pictures--your pictures in the paper."

Alix laughed. "And probably the bathing suit poses shocked her. I'll have to explain them."

She tried to make her voice casual when she asked, "Have you seen or heard anything of Kurt?" as if she didn't care any more.

Nancy said, "No, nothing. He's dropped out of sight."

"He was with us when we went down to see Tuck. He's going to call you tonight," Nancy smiled. "Tod likes him. They were friends immediately. Everybody likes Eddie. Alix, I thought maybe you and Jay... People who saw you together thought..."

"No, I couldn't."

Nancy understood.

They went in to dinner. And later when the servant said that Alix was wanted on the telephone, she went inside slowly and without curiosity, knowing that it was Eddie. Stunned, she stared at him.

He would always be so. Eddie would always be there when the men she had met the past weeks had forgotten the color of her hair and eyes and even her name and all the foolish, tender, lovely things they had said to her.

She picked up the phone and said, "Hello, Eddie. How are you?"

"I'm okay. And how are you? You didn't come back engaged--or something, did you?"

"Not engaged or anything."

"Not engaged for tonight?"

She gave a short little laugh and said, "Come out tonight. You know you're welcome any time, Eddie. Nancy and Tod are here. It's quite a family party. And if you've skipped dinner again, I think we can find you something when you get here."

He said soberly, "You haven't changed. I'm glad of that."

He was there in an incredibly short time.

The weeks passed and with them the radiance of summer. There were many days when it was too cool to swim in the pool and often at night a fire was lighted in the large stone fireplace in the drawing room. Don and Bernice continued to entertain lavishly. There was scarcely a week end when there were not guests in the house.

Alix rode frequently. When she was absent from the house, Bernice knew that she was riding through the picturesque valley and when she returned, slim, boyish-looking in the brown riding clothes, Bernice knew that in loneliness she was trying to solve her problem.

When she came in one morning, Bernice asked her to come up to her sitting room.

"Alix, aren't you happy with us?"

And Alix stood by the window, her hands deep in the pockets of the mannish little jacket, and said, "It isn't you. It's I. For weeks I've been having a battle with myself, asking myself if, loving one man, I could make another a good wife. I love Kurt so much. But I'm like a child who refuses to believe that her favorite toy is broken beyond mending. Eddie and I have had a foundation of friendship. We've been through things together. We've always been honest with each other. We'd go into marriage with our eyes open and with no illusions about each other."

"I can't help you in this, dear."

"I know. No one can. I've got to decide. And it isn't fair to Eddie to keep putting him off. I've tried and tried to find the answer but I always come back to Kurt. It takes a lot to kill my stubborn hope. But there isn't any hope, Bernice. But--if he should come in now... The tears sprang in her eyes. "Sorry. I don't want to worry you with this."

Should she tell Bernice that Kurt and Gina were married? No. Soon the world would know. Surely, wherever they were, it would not be a secret much longer. "I like to talk about him," she said softly. "It brings him close. But he isn't close, Bernice. I tried to fall in love with Jay. I really tried. And I couldn't feel anything. All my life, when I'm not busy running away from myself, I'm going to think about Kurt and want him."

Bernice looked at her with great kindness and understanding, wondering if Alix were aware of the change in herself. She had grown lovelier, more poised. The Alix of today in her smart riding clothes, her hair perfect, was a far cry from the shabby little girl they had first known. If only Kurt had met her first! If only he had met the Alix of today!

Every morning when the maid brought in Alix's breakfast tray, she tore a page from the calendar on the desk.

"You look sad when I do that," she said one morning.

Propped against the pillows, her throat and arms a deep tan in contrast to the white satin gown, Alix looked at the maid gravely.

"Men in prison do that, don't they? I've heard they do."

When Hattie left, she looked out the window where the leaves were beginning to be tipped with orange and red, and thought, "To-night Eddie is coming again. Tomorrow he is going to Chicago to live. I wonder if I'll go with him. I don't know yet. That's the terrible part of it--I still don't know. But if I tell him I'll marry him, I mustn't let anything change me. I must never hurt him."

That afternoon she went to the cottage to see Nancy who was, as most people who went to the small white house, there to see a child playing at keeping house. Sitting before the silver tea service, she passed a cup of tea to Alix.

"Tod and I were talking last night and we wondered if you'd like to come to live with us."

"The rolling stone?" Alix smiled. "No. I wouldn't think of it. A house, no matter how large, is large enough for only one family. But I'm rather tired of parties and getting in late and saxophones shrieking. Nancy. When I come over to see you, I want a house of my own more than ever. I'd like to sit before my own fireplace and wait for a man to come home to me. That's the kind of girl I am. I want roots. Permanent ones. I've never been a career girl and I'm certainly not going to make a career of going to parties. Party girl. I'm not that either."

"Don't marry Eddie. Wait."

"Tell me what to wait for! To see Kurt and Gina together and be invited to their home? That is, if Gina would invite me. To go to Palm Beach next winter and dance and be made love to by men like Jay? All the men except the right man want me."

'Pave Horrible Sidewalks'---Mayor

Hartsfield Urges Broad Program of Improvements for More Beautiful, Cleaner City in 1939

A broad program of public improvements involving general repair of Atlanta's streets and sidewalks was urged yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield before the public works committee of city council.

Citing the "horrible condition of some of our sidewalks," the mayor suggested the committee take steps to make "a cleaner and more beautiful city."

Councilman George Lyle, chairman, assured the mayor the committee was planning to get streets and sidewalks in the best possible condition during 1939.

"We did considerable paving last year but we are making plans to do even more this year," Chairman Lyle said.

Stressing the need for improvement in many of the negro sections, Mayor Hartsfield said now is the logical time to launch a street improvement program since the negroes are generally in better financial condition because of national policies.

The mayor said he had no patience with "white landlords who oppose the construction of sidewalks in negro sections." The best way to keep the negro satisfied is to give him a wholesome environment in which to live, he added.

"I've about made up my mind to get out my movie camera and take pictures of some of our streets and sidewalks to show you their deplorable condition," he asserted.

FOOD NOT CAUSE OF STRIKE—WARDEN

Real Trouble Hasn't Been Revealed, Says San Quentin Head.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Some 2,750 hungry, sullen convicts still on strike, ostensibly against San Quentin prison's menu, remained in their cells today and ate bread while Warden Court Smith worried about what he termed a potential "powder keg" situation.

More than half the prison's population of 5,240, supposedly the largest convict group in the United States, was on strike.

On Smith's order, one-pound portions of bread were handed to each striker during the morning. The bread disappeared quickly.

The warden expressed the belief that food was not the real issue. Complaints against the menu, he said, were vague. He was hopeful of learning the exact situation.

"This may be a powder keg," said Warden Smith. "We can only guess at the real trouble, but I believe fewer than one-third of the affected prisoners are in sympathy with the strike."

High Executioner Of France Dies

En Route to 402d

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—France's "hereditary executioner of high justice," Anatole Deibler, died today as he was starting out for his 402d execution with the guillotine.

The execution was to have taken place tomorrow at Rennes, where Deibler was born 75 years ago and passed the unhappy years of his childhood, direct in line for a job that had been in the family 120 years.

Son, grandson and great-grandson of France's masters of the guillotine, Deibler was forced into his gruesome career simply because all other doors were closed to him.

The mild-mannered old man, who had come to speak in gentle tones of his "duty," collapsed this morning on the platform of a subway station near his home in suburban Paris.

With the passing of "Monsieur de Paris," the position of high executioner passes to a name other than Deibler, but the job still will be in the family. In 1936, Deibler persuaded his nephew, Andre Obrecht, to carry on. Obrecht is said to have mastered his uncle's technique by chopping off the ends of straw bundles with one of the three guillotines in Deibler's custody.

SLASHED WPA BILL GIVEN ROOSEVELT

ment to the $725,000,000 relief bill, which, if adopted, would have more nearly equalized the WPA pay of workers of the south with those of other sections of the country.

The vote came during discussion of the conference report on the bill, which refused to agree with the senate that the Tarver amendment should be stricken out.

Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, Ga., author of the amendment which was inserted in the original house bill following a full afternoon of debate last week, found that the principal objection to this amendment was that it would seriously inconvenience the immediate disbursing of the emergency relief fund. He had insisted in his amendment that not a dollar of the $725,000,000 could be expended until the rates of pay of WPA employees were fixed so as to eliminate differentials in the hourly rates in the same general classification.

In other words, the Georgian was attempting to force WPA to pay southern relief workers up to at least 25 per cent of the maximum rate paid elsewhere for the same kind of work.

In a strongly worded address to the house today Judge Tarver pleaded with his colleagues on both sides of the aisle to do away with "obvious discrimination" between relief workers of the south and other areas so that there would be no sectionalism in the administration of WPA funds. He said that the difference in wages ranged between 20 or 22 cents an hour in Georgia to $1.03 in Illinois for the same kind of work.

His colleague, Representative Stephen Pace, of Americus, in a vigorous 10-minute talk from the floor, supplemented the Tarver plea by asking the house to give workers of the south at least the minimum wage fixed by congress in the wage-hour act passed last session.

"Our opponents tell us that if we accept my colleague's amendment it would repeal the prevailing wage provision of a former general relief act," Mr. Pace declared. "No prevailing wage minimum can be disturbed because today there is no prevailing wage. There are 3,000 wage scales in the nation right now, with large cities receiving the largest share, while farmers of the south are only receiving a small dole in the form of farm security grants, and farm security grants are the next thing to WPA wages."

Northeastern Republicans joined en bloc with northeastern Democrats and some middle west members to defeat the amendment.

SOUTHERN RAILS WOULD CUT RATES

Fuel Oil Revisions Asked of ICC.

An application by southern railroads for permission to make a general revision of freight rates on gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil, from ports in Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, has been taken under consideration, Interstate Commerce Commission officials in Washington, said yesterday.

A spokesman for the railroads said the proposed revision was intended to meet competition from truckers. The railroads, he added, hope to put the revised rates into effect about March 15. With few exceptions, he said, they are lower than existing rates, some of the reductions being "substantial."

MRS. L. D. McDONALD'S FUNERAL CONDUCTED

Funeral services for Mrs. L. D. McDonald, a resident of Atlanta for more than half a century, who died Wednesday at her home, were conducted yesterday at Spring Hill. Dr. Ellis A. Fuller officiated and burial was in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

A native of West Point, Mrs. McDonald was widely known. She was a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the First Baptist church and the Atlanta Woman's Club.

SPANISH WAR AIDS U. S. ORANGE TRADE

France Turns to America After Collapse of Loyalist Regime.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The United States was invited today to fill French market requirements for oranges due to collapse of the Spanish republican regime and a slump in Italian-French trade.

A supplementary quota of 80,000 quintals, equivalent of 200,000 cases, for the 120-day period starting March 1, was given to United States orange growers.

The original quotas gave Spain 700,000 quintals, Italy 18,000 quintals, and the United States 7,300 quintals. The supplementary quota offered United States growers was in addition to the first amount.

France also was negotiating with Palestine for a quota of 100,000 quintals on an exchange basis. Under the trade, France would supply lumber to make orange cases and Palestine would ship them one case of oranges for every two crates.

The United States apple quota, French importers announced, was hardly 50 per cent filled and imports virtually were stopped. Prices too high for French markets was the reason given.

REFUGEES LEARNING WAY OF AMERICANS

dents, some 320 of whom are boarding students. There are trade shops, live stock and all sorts of work for the boys to do as they work to help pay for their education.

The German refugees are being given careful supervision. Every effort is made to keep away from them the crackpots, the would-be "social workers," and those who try to "interview" them about their experiences. The idea is to let them have the same normal existence any other boy would have. The idea was that in the trades and vocational schools these boys who have known sorrow and personal injury: who have seen their families destroyed or imprisoned, may find the real American ideal of living.

Amazed at Democracy.

America intrigues them. They are constantly amazed by the actual democracy that exists between students and teachers. The idea that President Barron would walk around with them and with the other boys and would take a personal interest, had them enthralled.

One of them thinks the countryside looks very much like the countryside in Austria. They like the games, basketball being the current interest. They are looking forward to baseball. They think it wonderful that in America one may work as one learns. Already the spirit of America has caught them. They want to be very good Americans.

The melting pot is at work—as it always must be at work. These boys bring fine minds, good characters and good ambition to add to the store already in America. The American boys who work, study and live with them, have accepted them. It is inspiring to see the melting pot at work and to hear the voices from it.

EX-SOLDIERS ATTACK PREMIER OF BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A group of ex-service men, shouting for the resignation of Premier Paul Henri Spaak, attacked the Premier outside his home tonight and slightly injured him with a blow on the head.

The attack resulted from the ex-service men's disapproval of the government's appointment of Dr. Martens as a member of the Flemish Academy.

Beware The Cough From a common cold That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements found in many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote nicely blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside.

Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion "tops" for coughs because in it you get a good dose of Creosote emulsified so that it is palatable, and may be taken frequently by both adults and children with remarkable results.

Creomulsion is generally found satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritation, especially those stubborn ones due to common colds that hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Don't worry through another sleepless night—use Creomulsion. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained.

Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product, and the relief you want. (Adv.)

WHITEHALL at MITCHELL

Rainey-Lindsey Rites Set for February 25 At Decatur Church

Announcement is made today of the wedding plans of Miss Marjorie Dave Rainey, of Decatur, and James B. Lindsey, of Atlanta, whose engagement was recently announced. The marriage of the young couple is set for February 25 at the First Baptist church with the pastor, Dr. A. J. Moncrief, officiating at 6 o'clock in the evening. James Beers, the church organist, will give a musical program prior to and during the ceremony.

W. M. Rainey will give his daughter in marriage and Mr. Lindsey will have James Marvin Bagley Jr., as his best man. Miss Sara Gray Rainey, cousin of the bride, will be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Misses Peggy Ulrich, Sue Lindsey, Nell Scott Earlsman, Lufred Brooks and Mrs. John E. McKinley. Ushers and groomsmen will be Hugh Bert Lindsey, Waldo Lindsey, Joe Hall, John Rainey, of Birmingham, brother of the bride-elect, Henry Byrum and Mack Furlow.

A series of social affairs is planned to honor the young pair before their marriage. Among the first is the luncheon to be given today for Miss Rainey by Mrs. Jack Johnson and Mrs. J. D. McPherson, of Savannah, at the home of the former in Decatur. Tomorrow Miss Lufred Brooks gives a luncheon and shower in her honor.

On February 6 Miss Helen Barnes has planned a bridge luncheon and on February 11 Mrs. Frank Inman Jr. entertains at a bridge-luncheon at her home on Maddox drive in Atlanta. Mrs. John McKinley and Miss Sue Lindsey entertain at a dinner party and shower on February 16. Mrs. LeRoy Ulrich and Miss Peggy Ulrich give a tea for Miss Rainey on February 18 and on February 24 Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watson Rainey and Miss Sara Rainey give a buffet supper for the bride-elect and her fiancé after the wedding rehearsal.

Mrs. Adams, of Mich., To Be Honored.

Mrs. Cosby Swanson entertains the alumnae chapter of Alpha Chi Omega Saturday at 3:30 o'clock at her home on Cherokee road.

Guest of honor will be Mrs. Thomas H. Adams, of Birmingham, Mich., a graduate of the University of Michigan and member of Theta chapter of Alpha Chi Omega.

Mrs. Adams has held various offices in the sorority and is now the national counselor. She has during the past few weeks visited chapters at William and Mary, Brenau, the University of Georgia and will, before her return to Michigan, inspect other chapters in the southern province.

During the afternoon tea will be served at which time Mrs. Swanson will be assisted by Miss Nelle Harris, president of the Atlanta alumnae chapter; Mrs. Asbury Greene, vice president; Mrs. William L. Avrett Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. James Gibson Smith, secretary.

Tau Kappa Phi To Honor Rushees.

The Alpha Chapter of the Tau Kappa Phi sorority will observe rush week this week end by entertaining the rushees at many social functions.

This evening they will enjoy a wicker roast. The young ladies and their dates will meet at the home of Miss Martha Hill, 1225 Euclid avenue, at 7 o'clock.

Saturday, a luncheon will be given the rushees at the home of Miss Lillian Lowe at her home on Highland View. Miss Frances Robinson will entertain at a tea at her home on 1142 West Peachtree, on Sunday, from 5 to 6 o'clock.

The rushees are Misses Betty Cavaleri, Gloria Warren, Jean Googe, Virginia Henson, Mary Anne Alexander, Helen Fulbright, Dorothy Alexander, Dot Hunt, Lilla Longley, Mildred Balford, Christine Little, Gladys Turner, Dorothy Robinson, Martha Grayson, Janet Clark, Helen Blackwood, Fay Martin, Frances Fitzgerald, Joyce Slate, Peggy Smith, Ann Marie Moore, Elizabeth Thomas, Christine Carpenter, Mary Vellars, Grace Palmer, Betty Huckleby and Betty McKemie.

Altar Boys' Society To Be Entertained.

Members of the Altar Boys' Society of St. Luke's Episcopal church will be entertained Saturday afternoon at a theater party.

Composing the membership are Charles Anderson Jr., Dan Bailey, Palmer Barnes, Coleman Budd, Randolph Goulding, Robert Guerard, Howard Johnston, Coleman Kimbro Jr., Bill Lake, Cecil McGhee, Lee Morrison, Francis Rafalovich, Billy Roselle, Tommy Schneider, Charles Shaver, Jan Smith, Alan Stanford Jr., Edwin Ward, Billy Trendway.

Charles W. Ashurst, master of altar boys, will be host.

Alpha Sigma Pi Plans Treasure Hunt.

The Alpha Chapter of the Alpha Sigma Pi fraternity will entertain Saturday evening with a treasure hunt at Estes' Lodge in Rex.

Pledges are Frank Jones and Alfred Scoggins. Rushees invited are Frank Mason and John Tyler. Guests invited are Craig Thrash, W. H. Holmes, Jack Grabbe, Misses Tot Battle, Helen Jones, Peggy Peace, Julia Fleet, Mary Jane Twest, Florence Harrison, Eugenia Neel, Ann Barili, Shirley Thomas, Dot Perkins, Ann Funke, Kay Young, Peggy Johnson, Betty Garges, Beverly Adams, Myrtice Clair Johnson, Boudry Bud, Georgia Rachenburg and others.

You Can Add Inches to Height While Subtracting Them From Width

Nancy Kelly Is Pride Of Studio and Boss

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2.—Nancy Kelly—the youngest dramatic actress on the screen—seventeen years old, came to Hollywood eight months ago, and now the pride, hope and joy of Twentieth Century-Fox in general and Boss Darryl Zanuck in particular—has played feminine top spot in three big productions—"Submarine Patrol," with Richard Greene; "Jesse James," with Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda and Randolph Scott; and the soon-to-be released "Tailspin," with Alice Faye and Edward Norris. Now preparing for "Stanley and Livingstone," with Spencer Tracy.

Miss Kelly is the only leading lady in Hollywood who brings her mother on all dates. She refers to her as "Nan." (Father is "Jack.") "I'm not old enough to go out alone with a man—it wouldn't be nice for a girl my age to go out unchaperoned," she tells me over a beef stew and ice cream lunch. "When will you be old enough?" I inquired. "When I'm 18—in March," replies Nancy. (Don't rush, boys.)

Her studio believed she was of age to have a publicity campaign—but Nancy said "No." "When you see my name coupled with a man's in the newspapers, it will be the real thing," she assures me. This has already happened twice—once as having dated an entire evening with John Garfield—the other lad was Edward Norris. The Garfield episode was without truth. "I was so mad when I saw it in the papers—it was a large party and John was there with his wife, whom he adores. I danced with him once!"

Miss Kelly amends her statement to read, "When my name is coupled with a man's, it will mean I like him. I couldn't go out with someone I didn't like." . . . She tells me she is fancy-free at the moment. But — "I shall marry when the right man comes along—and it certainly won't interfere with my career."

She is much prettier off screen than on. The camera has not yet done justice to her big dark eyes and attractive profile. Severest critic of the Kelly looks is Miss Kelly—"I look like the wrath of

By Ida Jean Kain.

At a beauticians' convention in New York, one of the surprise features was a series of exercises performed by two young women whose faces were turned away from the audience. Both were supple and beautifully slim but one seemed to put more verve into her performance than the other.

On finishing their part of the program they faced the audience and were introduced as Miss Reilly and Grandma Reilly. It was Grandma Reilly, 67 years old and the mother of seven, who had been going through her exercises with such dash!

In spite of the fact that she is approaching 70, she has three perfect measurements: Bust, 34 inches; hips, 33 inches; waist, 28 1-2 inches. She is five feet two and one-half inches tall and weighs 122 pounds.

Her son, Harold J. Reilly, prescribes the exercises she follows, and says: "Mother is too proud of her figure to neglect her exercises for even a day. She likes looking slim and youthful when most of the women her age have rocking-chair figures." So Grandma Reilly exercises for 5 to 10 minutes every day, and three times a week she has a workout at the gymnasium, under her son's supervision.

All her exercises are of the stretching and posture improvement favored by Mr. Reilly, who has spent 25 years at keeping people fit and whose first advice to anyone beginning an exercise program is, "See your doctor and have your heart and blood pressure checked."

After that, you are all set for some exercises that are really different. They were originated by Mr. Reilly and require the use of a six-pound medicine ball—that's the weight best suited to the average woman. If you will do them carefully and faithfully you may be able to add to your height and you can subtract any number of inches from your width. Almost anyone, Mr. Reilly believes, can add one-fourth inch to her height.

Begin with the "Hallelujah exercise" which firms loose flesh on the backs of the upper arms and wears the excess off ribs and shoulders. . . . Hold the medicine ball high overhead in both hands and stand with feet slightly apart. With the arms in this position, toss the ball into the air, catching it before it falls lower than the top of the head. Four or five times will be enough for a beginning. Don't lower the arms during the exercise.

To mold and slim the thighs, hold the ball in both hands in front of the body and bring one knee up and the ball down simultaneously so that the ball is bounced smartly on the thigh. Alternate legs. Begin with 25 times and very gradually increase to 100, then to 200 times.

To banish fat pads on the sides of the hips, get down on the floor with weight resting on the right arm, the right hip and the feet. Roll the hip about on the ball. This affords a combination of exercise and massage which, Mr. Reilly assures us, is hard to beat.

When you have done a thorough job of that one, lean the small of the back against the ball, knees flexed and feet on the floor. Keeping the feet in the same spot, work backward on the ball, stretching your body.

For a slim waist and strong tummy muscles, stand about a foot from the wall, holding the medicine ball in both hands. Stretch the arms high overhead and reach back to touch the ball to the wall. Return ball to floor, relax, and repeat.

The use of the medicine ball is apt to prove tiring and our expert warns against over-doing your exercises at the beginning. After you have conditioned yourself to exercise, however, you should be able to take it in fairly large doses. And once you are in shape, you can keep as trim as Grandma Reilly with a 5-to-10-minute workout a day!

Have You Tried Running Half A Mile?

By Dr. William Brady.

Where the efficiency of the heart is reduced for any reason, or where the reserve power is low, one of the most familiar manifestations is labored breathing on exertion.

Advise every mature adult who reads this and is not actually crippled or under medical care, to test the efficiency or reserve power of his heart by trying to run half a mile. Take your own gait. If you can keep around for that distance there's something wrong with you, and you had better have medical advice at once. Any normal adult under 60 should be able to run a mile without getting "windy." If you find you have to slow down to walk before you are past the half way post, or anywhere along the home stretch, don't take it too badly, for there are literally millions of ginks, well, hundreds thousands anyway, who are suffering with the same trouble as yours, namely, suboxidation.

Maybe you need a regular daily stint of hard breathing. Not deep breathing exercise. That's silly business and never gets you anywhere. I mean natural hard breathing. What I'm trying to do is sugar coat the pill. There is only one way you can do natural hard breathing, and that is by exercising vigorously enough to induce hard breathing. Incidentally, let it be belly breathing, and forget you have a chest.

It doesn't matter much what form of exercise you do. It is fine if it happens to be useful work of any kind which you can enjoy doing. But otherwise it may be walking, running, skating, dancing, playing a game, climbing a hill or climbing stairs, gymnasium class drill, bicycle riding, or any calisthenic exercise you like.

By conscious deep breathing you can for a minute or two inhale a larger amount of air, oxygen, and indeed overfill your blood with oxygen. But the inevitable consequence is a similar period of slower and more shallow breathing, so that in the end you are right where you were when you started. But natural deep breathing, which is automatic and most efficient if your mind is on something else than your breathing, is not followed by such a period of shallow or slow breathing. Moreover the cause of the natural deep breathing, exercise, also causes the blood to utilize the increased oxygen intake, and that means increased oxidation, increased metabolism, and so you gain something by the regular exercise period daily. You burn up your energy, eliminate or dispose of waste matter which might otherwise give rise to symptoms which you may vaguely ascribe to auto-intoxication. Besides it gives your heart increased efficiency and greater reserve power to serve in an emergency.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Better Eventually Than Not. Please send the undersigned (aged 68) whatever advice you can give in reference to prostatic obstruction. Twenty-five years ago your teachings cured me of the "constipation habit"—I have been grateful all these years but never told you so! (C. K. J.)

Answer.—For copy of the monograph on prostatic obstruction send a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address. Do not send a clipping. For a copy of the booklet "Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene," send ten cents coin and a stamped envelope bearing your address.

Day-Time Coat Dress

By Barbara Bell

If you take a woman's size you will be enthusiastic over this very new version of the smart coat-dress, in a design (1681-B) for day-time wear. It has such a fashioned, tailored look that it's appropriate for street or sports wear, too. The scalloped front closing is so cut at the waistline, you see, as to provide a generous lap that requires no buttons down the skirt. This clever, coat-like detail makes this design particularly unhampering to work in.

The princess silhouette, the trim, tailored collar and cuffs, are very becoming. This is a practical, flattering design that you'll wear many times over, making it in calico, gingham or percale for home wear, and in thin wool or sports silk for shopping, quick drives to the grocery and station. It's such a simple dress to make! Detailed sew chart included.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1681-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4-3-4 yards of 35-inch material. Plus 5-8 yard contrasting; 2-3-4 yards of edging.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, day-time and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical! To sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Price of Pattern Book 15c. Do not send stamps.

A Whiff of April Violets Will Snap You Right Out of Winter's Doldrums

By LILLIAN MAE.

It's cold, mirky, it's bone chilling. You're tired of winter clothes. But the fur coat still feels good. Let's add our own touch of springtime. Violets always speak of spring and bring dreams of days when we may roam in the great out-of-doors and soak up the good old sunshine.

The violets haven't yet opened their pretty little eyes, but we may still pretend, by using a perfume which, with our eyes closed, will remind us of dew-drenched violets peeping timidly from their deep green foliage. Even Easter, won't seem so far away.

The very shyness of this scent blends with the quaint fashions of today and the dainty woman will delight in this personal fragrance. It is the true odor of wood violets. It has been packaged in an enchanting white and gold box—unique, gay and feminine. The fresh, delicate odor may be obtained in soap, bath salts, dusting powder, toilet water, sachet and compressed blossoms, as well as in perfume.

Phone me and I'll tell you the name of this product which will dispel winter's gloom and give you that little touch of spring. If you do not live in Atlanta, write enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Who's to Blame When Bubble Bursts?

By Caroline Chatfield.

"You must be a man, maybe a Jewish rabbi," writes a correspondent, "as you always see the man's point of view and sympathize with him. Being a woman, I think nine times out of 10 a husband is responsible for a wrecked marriage. A woman marries to love and be loved when the bubble bursts it's because the husband won't do his part."

Being a woman, my sympathies are with the woman when her marriage is wrecked, even if she's the wrecker, because I know what it means to her to see her dear dream shattered, her security destroyed, herself faced with the necessity of earning her daily bread, all the while dogged by the fear that life may be over as far as love and marriage are concerned.

This is why I harp on the same note, warning women who are safe in warm places, not to take their positions for granted and throw away their first and best chance for happiness with the husbands they chose for life mates. I do believe marriage is a woman's game and as she plays it, the score is written.

Naturally no wife can chalk up a good score with a bouncer who hasn't it in him to be true to a Venus and a Solomon's virtuous wife rolled in one; nor to a bottle sucker who becomes more selfish as the new wears off and the years roll on; nor to a leechy lout who borrows license money and settles down to live without visible means of support; nor to a scrooge who'd rather starve for love than loosen the purse strings.

However, the rest of the race of

MY DAY Democracy Requires Conviction of Many

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—Yesterday afternoon I had a really exciting experience. I came home at 3 o'clock to keep an appointment with Mr. Raymond E. Krape. He had written and told me of his retirement to the country, after years of active business life, and his discovery that he could not settle down to inactivity. He then started some handicraft work, gave employment to some of his neighbors, and found a ready market for what he produced. What he needed was not an outlet for his work, nor money, but help in training people who were unemployed and on relief, and very modestly he said that he felt he needed help to improve his designs.

Judging from his orders, he has been pretty successful so far as his ideas are concerned. It is so unusual to find anyone who is offering employment to people even after they are trained, that I was quite excited. I liked Mr. Krape tremendously because of his modesty and his evident sincerity of purpose. He tells me that he gets up every morning at 4 and works until 10 or 11 o'clock every night, because he does want to make his venture successful. Of course, I do not know enough about the whole situation to make any final decisions, but I turned him over to people who might be of assistance to him. He happens to come from a part of the country where, if he can take any people off relief rolls, everybody will be very grateful to him. I wish we had more citizens of his type.

Then an old friend came, whom I had not seen for a long time. He asked me to do something in September, which is a long way off. I had a real sense of satisfaction in just seeing him, for he always reminds me of Louise Howe, whom he knew very well in the old days.

Then there followed a group of people with a cause. They wanted the President to do something not unusual, but it brought up the question which I think needs to be brought up over and over again. Leadership is important, but unless you are Mr. Hitler, you must not lead where your responsible following is not ready to uphold you. Democracy requires not the action of one man, but the conviction and courage of many.

Our last state dinner, the one to the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Bankhead, was given last night. The speaker, who sat next to me, is always a delightful companion. On my other side sat Senator Shipstead. I always find we have much in common. Last night we discovered that an interest in woods and woodworking was one we have never before really explored.

Our program of music after dinner last night was given by Mr. Ernest Schelling, Miss Margaret Speaks and Mr. Rene Le Roy, all of them finished artists, who made the evening a memorable one. (Copyright, 1939, for The Constitution.)

The Diary of a Lady With a House

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

Although the furniture designer, Duncan Phyfe (1768-1854), was a Scotchman born, he lived out most of his working years in America and so subtly interpreted the spirit of the new world that he has become indelibly a part of the American heritage. His furniture, influenced by the great eighteenth century craftsmen of England and by the simple forms in France, is yet touched far more irrevocably with his own individuality than by any other force. He borrowed themes and motifs from classic furniture, too, but adapted them to his own mood and manner until they became his by right of an understanding use. He set the key of federal American furniture of the period.

Slender without being too fragile, his furniture is never austere but always clean and simple in line and usually of mahogany. Carving with restraint and a great deal of needed turning is featured. Distinguishing details are parallel rings, adaptations of the scroll, the lyre, sprays of wheat.

In most of his chairs the back post and back leg form a continuous curve but the seat joins in a curving line that gives the effect of a continuous curve to the back. The concave curve of leg is a favorite Phyfe characteristic, to be seen in moderation on most of his chairs. These legs are often reeded, but sometimes carved in a conventional design. His chair backs most familiarly have the lyre back motif, one of the most charming designs ever thought of for furniture. But he also employed a simple horizontal bar back and variations of the X cross pieces. The arm chairs usually have scroll or curved arms resting on a turned baluster.

Decorated Phyfe sofas are distinguished by the concave curve, too, only the short feet are more elaborately carved than most Phyfe pieces. They practically always have overhanging arms based on a scroll form; a straight line across the back is typical, and the wooden frame is reeded in long flowing lines.

Tables by Phyfe were pedestal types, the legs concave and either reeded or carved with restraint. Smaller tables sometimes have lyre end pedestals. Phyfe buffets are less characteristic, but equally men are outstanding citizens who go into marriage in the same spirit as the woman. They bargain for love and companionship, a woman's tenderness and sympathy, a woman's skill at homemaking and most of all perhaps they bargain for a mother for their children. Being men and free (in more ways than one) they are in position to slide out if they think themselves cheated; and slide they do unless they have the good old rock-ribbed character that holds their feet to the hearth when their hearts are no longer there.

Is this a man's point of view that marriage is a woman's game? Surely she writes her own ticket, as woman, wife, and mother. She sets the tempo of the marriage relation. She trains the husband, or doesn't, to come through as she thinks he should. She puts her mark on the children's manners and character, their attitude toward both parents.

The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world and before the cradle is ever rocked that same hand has laid whether or not there will be co-operation on the part of the man who put up the cradle.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD. (Copyright, 1939, for The Constitution.)

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

A charming wife is never guilty of the tell-tale "big boss" form of speech in her husband's presence, as "my children," "my house," "my electric bill," and so on. "Our children," "our house" suggests a far nicer co-operative arrangement.

New Single Jump Overcall

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Judging from the many inquiries received from bridge players everywhere, it is evident the new 1939 single jump overcall, one of the new table changes announced in the Culbertson system for 1939, needs further explanation.

The chief objection raised by those die-hards who usually oppose any sort of refinement in old methods of bidding, is that the new jump overcall blocks pre-emptive bidding by defenders.

Their objections may be justified. Let us analyze the new defensive bidding wrinkle advocated by Ely and see.

Juniors Adore It

By Lillian Mae

The latest style-whims for juniors are summed up oh-so-sweetly in this new Lillian Mae frock—with yoke, girde-waist and flared skirt! Can't you just picture your daughter wearing it this spring? Ask her—if she's old enough—if she wouldn't like to stitch it up for herself. The making is easy—simplified by a step-by-step Sewing Instructor. See how new-looking the bolero is when in a flowered fabric. Or you might have the frock in print, the bolero in monotone crepe matching or contrasting. Another idea—not shown—is to have dainty dress yoke, cap sleeves and bolero in an accent shade that flatters the face!

Pattern 4046 is available in girls' and junior sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 10, dress, takes 2 1-8 yards 39-inch fabric and bolero, 5-8 yard contrast.

Atlanta Colony in Miami Seen Among Gay Throng at Tennis Match

By Sally Forth.

LAWN TENNIS, the smart sport among society folk everywhere, is definitely the vogue in resort circles in Miami, according to Sally Forth's Florida scout. When Donald Budge met Ellsworth Vines in Flamingo Park this week, the colorful and fashionable gallery proved almost as interesting as the tennis match. Among enthusiastic Atlantans seen in the gallery was Mrs. S. A. Lynch Sr., who entertained a number of guests in her box. Atlanta's Mrs. Edwin Johnson and Macdon's Mrs. Fleming Johnson were interested spectators in the box of their hostess, Mrs. Emmett McKenzie, who, with her lovely young daughter, Mary Lamar McKenzie, is spending a month at Miami Beach.

Listed among the box-holders for the annual invitation tournament at the Surf Club this week were Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins Jr. Lindsey, by the way, was among the group of tennis enthusiasts who witnessed the men's matches at the Everglades Club at Palm Beach last week.

Those popular Atlantans, Mrs. W. C. Satterthwaite and Mrs. W. K. Jenkins, were central figures at the luncheon given at the Hialeah Park clubhouse this week by the former's sister, Mrs. S. A. Lynch. After luncheon they witnessed the races from the Lynch box. One of the prettiest of the recent luncheons given at the Surf Club was that at which Mrs.

L. O. Bricker honored Mrs. Charles F. Kettering, of Dayton, Ohio. The hostess wore an afternoon frock of pumpkin yellow, embroidered with matching soutache braid, her wide-brimmed hat smartly adorned with a cluster of yellow flowers. The honor guest chose an aqua and white print gown complemented with a wide-brimmed hat of Dubonnet straw.

Another interesting Surf Club luncheon was that at which Mr. and Mrs. Fenn O. Stone were hosts in compliment to Mr. and

Episcopal Guild Plans Bridge Party

St. Catherine's Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church, sponsors a Valentine bridge party, on the afternoon of February 14 at the Biltmore hotel. Proceeds from the party will go to the various charities sponsored by the guild.

Mrs. Lawton Kirkland, president of the guild, announces the following chairmen: Mrs. F. B. Ramey, general chairman, with Mrs. J. A. Gantt, co-chairman; Mrs. William B. Lamar, chairman of patronesses; Mrs. Gilbert Beers, Mrs. James Budd and Mrs. William Hager, refreshments; Mrs. Eugene Cronheim, decorations; Mrs. H. B. Harmon, prizes; Mrs. Rogers Toy, cards and tables; Mrs. Bond Almand, candy; Mrs. J. A. King and Mrs. R. A. Camp, cookies; Mrs. J. L. Wright and Mrs. F. B. Hoyt, tickets; Mrs. A. Q. Smith, publicity.

Mrs. John D. Von Glahn, of New York, who are the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Weller, at the Weller home on Brickell avenue. The guests gathered for cocktails in the cabana of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Holbrook, who were among the "Stones" guests, and after luncheon went for a cruise aboard the Holbrook yacht, Emory. Mrs. Von Glahn is the former Marion Weller, and she and Mr. Von Glahn are well known here, having often visited their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Elder, on Muscogee avenue.

The Elders, by the way, returned Wednesday from Miami, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Weller, following a luxurious cruise with their close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boone, of South Carolina, aboard the Boone yacht.

AT THE open house given recently by the Atlanta Theater Guild at the Castle Playhouse on Fifteenth street, a novel entertainment was introduced in the form of a "quiz" program. At the close of a social meeting, Sydney Owen and Dr. Frank Belyeu invited those present into the theater, where they were requested to take part on the program. Five volunteers proceeded to the stage, where individual questions were drawn from a box. A penny prize was awarded those who answered their question correctly, but a nickel fine was imposed on the unfortunate unable to supply the correct answer.

Those in the audience concentrated on the replies almost as diligently as the participants, which assured the success of the "quiz" program.

If you desire to know what happens to a white stone thrown into the Red sea, or how to pronounce v-i-c-t-u-a-l-s, the answer awaits you at the guild meeting next Wednesday evening.

A FUTURE musician is in the making at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., if news reaching Sally is a forecast. George Dargan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan Jr., will hear her own song played and sung in the musical comedy, "Showdown," to be presented by the Junior class of Stephens College on February 17-18.

George's song, "Lovely Manikin," is one of the six original melodies selected for the show after elimination of the many songs written and submitted to the judges by juniors at Stephens College. There is considerable dramatic ability existing among Atlanta girls attending the college, and with their classmates they will present the revue without faculty supervision and will hold the reins from the first chorus rehearsals to the last curtain calls.

Barbara Nelson is another popular Atlanta belle enrolled at Stephens who has been awarded honors. Barbara is a junior, a member of the Eta Epsilon Gamma sorority, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Nelson. That mad rush of the students to the college post office every day has resulted in the appointment of Barbara as "post office traffic committee chairman." Barbara, as head of the committee, will direct the girls, facilitate mail handling and speed things up generally.

Miss Margaret Munroe Weds Randolph W. Thrower in Florida

QUINCY, Fla., Feb. 2.—Miss Margaret Logan Munroe, of Quincy, became the bride of Randolph William Thrower, of Atlanta and Washington, D. C., at a ceremony solemnized at 8 o'clock this evening at Centenary Methodist church here. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Key Thrower.

Rev. Hugh Cooper, Embury, of Greensboro, Fla., officiated, and Elbert B. Shaffer Jr., and Mrs. W. E. Woodward presented a musical program.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli placed against a background of palms and greenery beautified the altar. Cathedral candelabra holding white tapers completed the lovely effect.

Boisfeuillet Jones, of Atlanta, was the groom's best man.

Groomsmen were Albert Stubbs, Columbus; Robert S. Pringle, Atlanta; Neil McMullen, Tampa, Fla.; James Ferman, Tampa, Fla.; Harry M. Gunnin, Atlanta, and Charles Belthea, Atlanta.

Ushers were Pat Munroe, and Richard C. Munroe, brothers of the bride; Mortimer B. Bates Jr., Albert Reichart, Macon, and Benjamin C. Willis, Tallahassee, Fla.

Miss Annette Weinberg, of Quincy, was the bride's maid of honor. Mrs. Robert D. Woodward Jr., of Quincy, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Edith Bates, Quincy; Miss Avie Moats, Devereux; Mrs. John Curry, Quincy; Mrs. Thad E. Murphy, Macon; Miss Virginia Lee Thrower, Tampa, and Miss Edith Askew, Newnan.

The attendants were gowned alike in models of peach net which featured snugly fitted jackets and full skirts, and which were trimmed with bowknots of matching taffeta ribbon. Their bouquets were composed of Lester Hibbard roses arranged in cascade effect.

Mark Welch Munroe gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's exquisite wedding gown of misty tulle featured a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves and a full skirt, the latter extending to form a graceful train. Her veil of rosepoint lace and tulle fell from a cluster of orange blossoms in her hair, and she carried a cascade bouquet of valley lilies and lavender tinted orchids.

Mrs. M. W. Munroe, parents of the bride, entertained at a reception at their home.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake adorned with miniature wedding bouquets, and flanked by silver candelabra holding white tapers.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames H. S. Cobey, L. R. Munroe, W. S. Askew and M. W. Munroe III, Misses Annette McFarlin, Frances McFarlin, Betty May, Josephine Blitch, Jean Corry, Mary Chestnut Budd and Jean Weinberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Thrower left during the evening for a wedding trip to Florida. The bride wore for traveling a costume suit of mist grey wool crepe trimmed with platinum fox and worn with a black hat and accessories.

Upon their return, they will reside in Washington, D. C., where the groom is connected with the Washington branch of Sutherland, Tuttle & Brennan law firm in Atlanta.

Legion Auxiliary Presidents Meet.

Mrs. George W. Harris, Fifth District president of American Legion Auxiliary, called a meeting of unit presidents and chairmen of her district recently to start preparations for the auxiliary state convention to be held in conjunction with the American Legion state convention in Atlanta the latter part of June. The AMERICAN Way

A quickening of national consciousness . . . a surge of exultation in our convictions . . . an increasing pride in what we as a people stand for. And with it the realization that American designers and artists are creating, from a glorious heritage . . . functional, yet beautiful, merchandise; that American stylists are designing clothes specifically for our mode of living. Crisp lines, wearable fabrics . . . clothes intended for action, and a people who have an innate zest in living.

Dainty, captivating blouses that mirror a by-gone era. White batiste, fastidiously tucked and laced, reflects the Gibson girl.

The casual afternoon dress American women love. Gold dust tissue wool with tortoise shell buttons.

The little suit, an American pet, is practically a national institution. Navy and white mohair, tuxedo striped, unerringly tailored.

The alligator lends himself to fashion, and a brilliant life. He's turned chameleon . . . in Butterscotch, Cranberry red, Wine, Maple brown, and Blue. Color runs rampant this year . . . on your feet.

Mix-mates . . . a college whim that became an established fashion. A plum angora sweater and woolen skirt under a plum and moss green tweed jacket . . . mix 'em or mate 'em.

Stars and Stripes forever! Admiral stripes in trim navy and white over a staccato skirt of navy. A lightweight woolen from California.

Georgia Clubwomen Will Hold 44th Convention in LaGrange

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, of Atlanta, Editor of Georgia
Federation of Women's Clubs.

Georgia clubwomen will assemble in LaGrange on March 22, 23, 24 and 25 to attend the 44th convention of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. The invitation was extended Thursday at the meeting of the executive board, held at the Henry Grady hotel and presided over by Mrs. Albert M. Hill, of Greenville, president of the federation.

Mrs. John Jenkins, of Athens, second vice president of the federation, is arranging the program which will be replete with interesting phases of club work and enjoyable social affairs. Mrs. Sallie Orr Dunbar, of Portland, Ore., will lend her distinguished presence to the convention and will speak on the theme of her administration "Adjusting Democracy for Human Welfare."

Resolutions Adopted.
Highlighting the session was the resolution which was adopted by the executive board, in which members went on record as being in favor of federal aid for public school education without federal control. Such aid will be made available through the state school authorities and on an equalization basis. Georgia clubwomen would not be in favor of any bill that would lower the standards of vocational education or to permit the establishment of two separate programs of vocational education in the state. This resolution was passed by the state board of education, and was presented by Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge. Mrs. Albert Hill, state president, congratulated Mrs. Conger on the splendid work being done in education in Georgia and declared that the program outlined by the state board of education, of which Mrs. Conger is a member, contains many valuable reforms for which clubwomen have worked over a long period of years. Mrs. Hill mentioned vocational education and public school music as being objectives of federated clubwomen. Executive board members voted to recommend the introduction of a bill to increase the federal appropriation for extended vocational education. A telegram was sent Senator Walter George and members of the Georgia delegation in congress. Vote was taken in the affirmative to request the state department of education to include in the teacher training requirement at least one course in public school art, so that the art electives included in the new curriculum may be efficiently taught.

These resolutions were presented by Mrs. J. C. Rogers, of Dahlonega, state chairman of education, and Mrs. H. A. Carithers, of Winder, chairman of youth cooperation.

Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge, past president of Georgia Federation, and member of the state board of education, spoke to the resolution incorporating one course in public school art. She said that 90 training classes for teachers are being conducted in Georgia, without expense, to the state, to prepare for teaching these classes. Mrs. Conger stated that these classes will be made available to teachers in the summer institutes. She requested cooperation of clubwomen in putting over the educational program in Georgia.

Representatives from the ten districts pledged $10 to the $100 fund of General Federation and to be presented at the convention held in May in San Francisco, Cal. The money will be applied to the endowment fund of the other organization in the name of Georgia Federation. This action followed the recommendation of Mrs. Albert Hill, the president, who proposed the giving of the fund to mark the 50th anniversary of General Federation.

Principles Indorsed.
Mrs. Marvin Medlock, of Atlanta, chairman of department of legislation, submitted the following recommendations, the principles of which were indorsed: To support the bill setting up a system intended to insure a more secret ballot in the Democratic primary, and to provide means of forcing conformity to rules and regulations in the primary; to support the bill providing that a certificate be issued by a competent physician stating that individuals desiring a marriage certificate are not afflicted with social diseases and that license be denied in cases where such applicants are found to be so infected; to advocate the establishment of a domestic relations court in cities of 200,000 or more population; to support legislation to make jury duty optional for women; to reaffirm establishment of uniform marriage and divorce laws in the United States; to support General Federation efforts to establish uniform traffic systems; to advocate the building of a psychopathic hospital or hospitals to take care of mild mental cases, and to take care of patients who must remain in confinement until accommodations can be provided at the state hospital (at the present time, such patients must remain in the county jails, thus creating an added burden on the individual counties and working undue hardship on the patients); and to keep livestock off the highways.

Motion was made by Mrs. J. C. Rogers, of Dahlonega, and the motion was adopted, that Georgia Federation, through the executive board, send a written resolution of appreciation of the great cultural contribution that Wesleyan College in Macon has made to Georgia and the nation, as the first chartered college for women in the world, and that the federation assure the authorities there of hearty co-operation in the preservation of the college.

Mrs. Frank Dennis, of Canton, department chairman of public welfare, requested the indorsement of the five-point program of General Federation, which includes cancer, heart trouble, syphilis, pneumonia, maternal and infant care, which was approved by board members, who indorsed the work of the Field Army of Cancer.

Executive board members confirmed the election of Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, of Atlanta, as trustee emeritus of Tallulah Falls school, as well as the following trustees: Mesdames Clifford L. Smith, of LaGrange; A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge; J. W. Gholston, of Comer; S. M. Inman, Charles Pottinger, Blewett Lee, H. Irving Schweppe and Miss Marion Woodward, of Atlanta, and Miss Sarah Moss, of Athens.

Officers Making Reports.
Officers making reports were Mrs. Albert M. Hill, of Greenville, president; Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth, first vice president; Mrs. John W. Jenkins, of Athens, second vice president; Mrs. Clifford Smith, of LaGrange, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John O. Braselton, of Braselton, treasurer; Mrs. Howard McCall, of Atlanta, parliamentary, and Mrs. Ralph Butler, of Dallas, General Federation director. In the absence of Mrs. C. W. Heery, of Atlanta, recording secretary, her report was read by Mrs. Harvill D. Brown, of Royston, was represented by Mrs. D. I. Barron, of Monroe.

Miss Van Cleve Wilkins Weds Mr. Cochran at Athens Ceremony

Don Budge, Ellsworth Vines Play Tonight at Auditorium

by Jack Troy

With all due respects to the principals—they're the best the game has to offer today and there are some pretty good boys around—J. Donald Budge and Ellsworth Vines can never hope to equal the accomplishments of a retired contemporary, William Tatum Tilden II, whose records are such he will forever remain the king of the courts.

BILL TILDEN.

Donald Budge might have done it had he remained an amateur, but even then there is some question when one considers that in the reign of Tilden as an amateur he ten times won 16 singles matches against Australasia, Australia and France. He won four doubles matches, lost two.

Budge, as an amateur, was the nearest approach to Tilden. He was, in fact, an able successor. His Davis cup record included 10 singles victories against no defeats and four doubles wins against only one defeat in competition against England and Australia.

The California Comet, which designation may be ascribed to a shock of flaming outstanding accomplishments—

Two U. S. singles championships.
Two U. S. doubles championships (with Gene Mako).
Two U. S. mixed doubles championships (Mrs. Fabian and Alice Marble).
Two British singles championships.
Two British doubles championships (with Mako).
Two British mixed doubles championships (with Alice Marble).
French singles championship.
Australian singles championship.
Victoria championship (Australia).

Tilden was around 35 years of age when he turned pro and when he became arrayed against Vines, it really was no contest. Marvel that Tilden was—his legs outlasted all the others—Vines licked him 64 times as opposed to only 19 defeats.

Now Vines is almost 35 and Budge, with the vast edge of youth on his side, is doing almost the same thing to Ellsworth. The margin is not as wide, but the effect is largely the same.

The old champions established some remarkable records. They set up records which will never be equaled because of the automobile and other softening features of modern-day living.

MAX SCHMELING ARRIVES IN U. S.; WANTS BOMBER

Says He Can't Quit Ring With Defeat Marring Record.

By SID FEDER.
NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Max Schmeling came back to the United States today ostensibly for a 10-day visit, but still considerably pleased at the prospect of picking up a good American dollar or two for a prize fight appearance.

As cagey as a possum, the former world heavyweight champion parried questions concerning his rumored trouble with Nazi authorities, denying everything, and, in spots, countering question with question. When it was over, one and all agreed Max missed his calling—he should have been a diplomat.

Max, however, is definitely not a politician. He flatly stated as much when he was asked any question faintly concerning politics. Under this head, he classed such queries as whether he had ever threatened to "break Propaganda Minister Goebbels' neck" if the latter should pay attention to Mrs. Schmeling, or whether Goebbels had been beaten up by friends of actress Lydia Banova.

"All bunk, absolutely silly," he declared. "You reporters are funny. Why do you ask me these things? I'm no politician. Ask a politician. Why didn't you ask the German ambassador?"

His beetled black brows lifted slightly when he was informed the German ambassador had departed these shores some time ago. "Why did I come over on a French boat (the Normandie)?" he repeated a question. "Well, why not? I've crossed the ocean 20 times. Last time it was on an English boat."

That the purpose of the current trip wasn't exactly a joy ride came out very early in the interview. First Max asserted flatly that he had not been sent to this country by the German government to quiet rumors that all was not well between the Schmeling and Nazi leaders.

"I will fight again if I have the chance to meet some leading heavyweights. I want to fight Joe Louis again; I think I can beat him. I don't want to quit the ring with a defeat."

TO DEFEND BRITISH AMATEUR

CHARLIE YATES—WHEN HE WON LAST YEAR

Yates Ready To Defend British Title on May 22

Charlie Will Play in Augusta Meet Before Sailing; Has Become "Week-End" Golfer.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
Charles Richardson Yates, low-headed Atlanta youngster who took a broad smile and a bag of clubs to Scotland last spring and brought home the cup emblematic of the British amateur golf championship, will cross the Atlantic again to defend the crown.

The 25-year-old Yates, whose golf has become largely secondary to his efforts to make a place for himself in the banking business, pushed aside a stack of files on his desk yesterday and talked of his plans. But a barrage of questions failed to bring any optimistic answers.

"You know," he said with a smile and a drawl that won the acclaim of the British, Irish and Scots at Troon, "the odds are always greatly against any one player winning a big tournament like the British amateur. There are so many good players.

DO HIS BEST.
"But you can be sure that I'll do my darndest to stay in there with the boys. I understand the Hoylake course at Liverpool, where the tournament will be played, is a long and tough one. I have never played there."

The championship is scheduled for May 22-27. Yates said he hoped to reach the scene at least a week in advance of the tournament to get the "feel" of the course and warm up the old putter that served him so well in his victorious stand last year.

"How about that hot putter of yours; do you anticipate that it may help you defend the crown successfully?" Yates was asked. "I'm certainly in favor of it," he replied quickly, "but you can never tell about that until you get there hacking away."

Because of the pressure of his banking business, Yates has become a "week-end golfer," but has managed to do a bit of fancy par-cracking in recent rounds. Of his last 12 rounds, he has nine in the 60's. His best score was a 65, which is six strokes under regulation figures for the East Lake course.

ONE TOURNEY.
Yates will have one tournament under his belt before sailing for England. The latter part of March he will compete in the Augusta national tournament along with Bobby Jones, the British amateur champion of 1930, and a selected

CAPACITY CROWD EXPECTED TO SEE PRO TENNIS KINGS

Skeen, Chapin Open Program With Singles Battle at 8:15.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Tonight at 8:15 the city auditorium will be converted into a miniature Madison Square Garden and John D. Budge and Ellsworth Vines Jr. will continue their battle for the world's professional tennis crown.

Advance interest indicates the largest tennis crowd in Atlanta history will pack the house to watch the net natural of the century.

Richard Skeen and Al Chapin will open the program with a one-set singles battle after which will come the feature of the evening. The festivities will be concluded with a doubles match between Vines-Skeen and Budge-Chapin.

BEST OF 3 SETS.
The Budge-Vines battle will go the usual best of three sets with the doubles scheduled the same. The Budge-Vines and doubles match will both be the best of three sets.

At present, standing in the professional tennis league gives the red-headed California jitterbug a comfortable margin.

THE STANDINGS:
Player W. L. Pct.
Budge 13 8 .619
Vines 8 13 .381
The Atlanta appearance of the two greatest net players in the world is being sponsored by the Northside Tennis Club with Molly Williamson and Cody Laird in charge.

While Budge has a lead in matches won, it is much too early to count the hard-hitting Vines out of the picture. He is known as a slow starter and in his series of matches against Fred Perry in 1938, lagged behind at the start but soon built up a comfortable lead.

PRESENT CHAMP.
Vines is present professional champion, having won the crown from Bill Tilden and successfully defended it against the two-year challenge of black-headed Fred Perry.

Little need be said of Budge. He was undefeated in Davis cup competition in ten matches. And he and Gene Mako lost only one of five doubles matches while in cup competition.

He was one of the most invincible amateurs the world has ever known but gave up the simon-pure rackets to pick up about $100,000 in one year as a pro.

The Vines-Budge series has attracted record crowds in all cities. The auditorium will seat over 4,000 for a tennis match and it is expected to be filled to capacity.

Grant's Beaten 'Em Both

Has Won 5 Out of 9 From Don; 2 Out of 4 From Vines.

By ROY WHITE.
Bryan (Bitty) Grant, Atlanta's own giant killer of the tennis world, holds a most important victory over Ellsworth Vines, who plays Donald Budge tonight on the city auditorium court.

It was Grant who knocked the national tennis crown from Vines' head at Forest Hills in 1932—and it was Vines' last stand as an amateur. Vines was defending his 1932 National championship in that now famous quarter final match of 1933 which Grant won, his last over Vines and providing an even break in four tournament matches between the two.

Soon after that 1933 defeat Vines deserted the amateur ranks and began his spectacular pro matches in January, 1934.

Bitty has beaten Donald Budge, five out of nine times. In 1937 Grant beat Budge in both the Miami and Tampa tournaments, but later lost to the Californian.

And so Grant is in the best position to speak of tonight's match.

Grant would not venture out on a limb in predicting a winner. "Both are tops in tennis and both are unbeatable at times. So there's no best, but the player who is 'on his game' and in the best condition will win," Grant said.

Hot Kirby Trounces Mrs. John Arends, 5-4, in Miami Meet

BUTLER BEATEN BY JAMESON, 9-7; BERG IS WINNER

Patty, Betty Card 37's on 1st Nine for Easy Wins.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 2.—(P)—All the favorites, including National Champion Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, and Medalist Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, marched through the first round of the seventh annual Miami Biltmore women's national tournament today.

Miss Berg, her game in its usual high gear, romped through an 8-and-6 match with Mrs. A. H. Ruchlin, of Maplewood, N. J., never losing a hole as she bettered her by four strokes. The Minneapolis red-head birdied five and bogied two of the first nine holes and clinched the match with a birdie on the 12th.

Miss Kirby, playing after her record-tying 79 in the qualifying round, had little trouble defeating Mrs. John Arends, of Miami, 5 and 4. The Atlanta girl shot a two-over-par 42 on the front side but was two up at that stage, and she won three of the next four holes. Betty Jameson, of San Antonio, Texas, scored the day's most one-sided victory. She ushered out Mrs. Colleen Butler, of Atlanta, Ga., 9 and 7. Miss Jameson equalled Patty's first-nine 37, three under par, and quickly closed out the match.

Of the favorites only Jane Cochran, of Greenville, S. C., was extended. She had to battle all the way to eliminate Lillian Wood, of Richmond, Va., 2 and 1. Marion Milley, of Lexington, Ky., defeated Mrs. E. H. McFarland, of Zanesville, Ohio, 7 and 5; Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., whipped Katherine MacCloskey, of Pittsburgh, 5 and 4; and Mrs. William Hockenjos, of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., runner-up to Miss Kirby in the medal round, triumphed Mrs. H. S. Robbins, of Spring Lake, Mich., 8 and 7.

Tomorrow's pairings: Miss Kirby vs. Mrs. Lechner; Mrs. Solomon vs. Miss Bauer; Miss Jameson vs. Mrs. Ruth Wilcox, Louisville, Ky.; Miss Cochran vs. Elanias Williams, Chicago; Mrs. Hockenjos vs. Mrs. Harvey F. Mack, Easton, Pa.; Shirley Ann Johnson, Chicago, vs. Laddie Irwin, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Miss Berg vs. Laurence Schmitt, Miami Beach; Miss Milley vs. Mrs. Lillian Zech, Niles Center, Ill.

DETTWEILER WINS.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 2.—(P)—Helen Dettweiler, of Washington, D. C., won the winner of the Baurer-Soloman here today with a 3 and 2 victory over Betty Myers, of Clearwater, in the finals.

Kirby Plays Unusual Nine In 1st Round

On First Hole She 'Duffed' 2d Shot and Chipped 4th Into Cup.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.
MIAMI BILTMORE, Feb. 2.—Well, I passed the first round by winning 5 up and four to play, although my game was erratic. I have never played such an unusual nine holes. I started out by hitting my second shot on the first hole about 20 feet. The third was short and I chipped the fourth one in the cup for a 4.

On the fifth hole I hit a good drive, but a caddy who was chasing balls from the practice tee picked up my ball by mistake. I had to play another one and I dropped it in the sand.

On the seventh I hit a long drive and wound up in the water. It nearly cost me a hole. I was stymied on the eighth and lost the hole, so by the time I got to 10 I was not in a little fine shape. I picked up a little, though, and won on the 14th.

The best golf today was played by Patty Berg and Betty Jameson. Pat won in 37 and so was Betty. They won their matches easily. Jane Cochran nearly lost out, for she was 2 down at the turn but came back to win, 2 up.

It will be twice as hard tomorrow for two matches will have to be won in order to get in the semi-finals.

In the morning I play Mrs. Sylvia Lechner and the winner of that plays the winner of the Baurer-Soloman match.

DePaolo Visited Valley of the Shadow

Famous Race Driver Will Speak Here Tonight.

By JACK TROY.
Pete DePaolo, who had driven a car 185 miles per hour and, as he says, gotten away with it, roared around the curve in this road race in Barcelona, Spain, at 50 m. p. h., and saw the three children in the road. He gave the wheel a quick twist and everything went black.

For 11 days Pete DePaolo was unconscious. He was stone blind for five weeks. And so he had plenty of time to think as he lay there on the hospital bed in 1934.

He thought of his visit to the valley of the shadow at length and, looking back, he thought of 1925 and 1927 when he was national triple A champion. And there was the good year, 1925, when he won the 500-mile race at Indianapolis with an average of 101.13 m. p. h. The record stood for seven years.

Pete DePaolo thought of all

PETE DE PAOLO, Faced Death.

this as he went through the long recovery period and he decided, as they say in boxing, to hang up the gloves. He had had his share of the thrills and figured he had flirted with the grim reaper long enough.

DePaolo, who is a nephew of Ralph DePalma, famous old driver, was around the office yesterday looking very chipper indeed. He is traveling from coast to coast now for well-known piston ring manufacturers. He is the guest here of Ray C. Birdsall.

Tonight, the man who traveled the long road back from the valley of the shadow, will address a gathering at the Atlantic Brewery tap room. Pete will tell, as only he can, of the inside of big time racing.

This summer Pete will handle publicity for the 500-mile race again. He says he is surprised at finding himself a journalist, but likes the work fine. He had only one kick on his publicity last year. He referred to a driver as the only one of his race in big time racing, and the driver objected. He didn't care to be associated with this race, the story goes.

WARREN TO MEET PEERLESS MILLS

Peerless Mills, the Tennessee basketball team which stacks up as one of Dixie's finest, will invade Warren Arena to meet Shp. Lauter's strong five Sunday afternoon.

Peerless defeated J. P. C. on the Atlantics' home court in a close a few weeks ago and last year forced J. P. C. into an extra period to win. The Tennesseans are a talented, resourceful machine and do almost everything well. They are expected to give the Lautermen one of their toughest games of the season.

Another feature of Sunday's program will be the clash of Warren Reserves with Piedmont Laundry at 2:30 o'clock. Piedmont is the only team which has beaten Warren Reserves this season in 15 games and the return battle is sure to be a scorcher.

Effective clowning, has gained him more popularity in Atlanta than the rest of his teammates who are all sensational players.

James Key Golfers Will Meet Monday

Election of officers and plans for a number of spring tournaments will feature the annual meeting of the James L. Key Municipal Golf Association at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the clubhouse.

George Clayton is president and will be in charge of Monday's meeting.

Other officers of the club are Mortimer Freeman and Max Kessler, vice presidents; James F. Mitchell, secretary and treasurer, and Jack A. Skelton, assistant secretary.

The Key club is affiliated with the Atlanta Municipal Golf Association and will make plans Monday for participation on the municipal schedule.

GIRLS BEAT BOYS.

MONTEREY, Tenn., Feb. 2.—(P) Monterey High school, which has introduced such ideas as a smoking room for boys and boxing matches for the student body to settle grudges, today put on a basketball game between girls' and boys' teams. The game resulted in a 25-15 victory for the girls.

MADAMS FACES MILLER TONIGHT

There are two unusual wrestling attractions at Warren Arena tonight.

Jack McAdams, southern light heavyweight champion who has turned back all challengers for four months, will risk his title belt against the dangerous and versatile Sammy Miller in the 90-minute feature.

Miller, meeting McAdams for the first time, is expected to make it tough for Jack and fans expect a fine match.

Considerable interest is attached to the semi-final between the Red Devil, masked warrior, and Bob (Whiskers) Brown.

The Red Devil says he will unmask, thus disclosing his identity, if he loses to the Spider.

Brown has agreed to shave—in the ring—if he is beaten. A one-fall match will open the show at 8:30. Tiny Ruff will referee.

Tech Tackle Is Reported 'Doing Well'

Wood Undergoes Mastoid Operation; Swimming Caused Infection.

C. R. (General) Wood, junior tackle on Georgia Tech's football team, underwent a mastoid operation yesterday and was reported "doing well" a few hours later.

Attendees at the hospital (Ponce de Leon infirmary) said the infection which necessitated the operation dated from swimming last summer but the husky lineman from Raleigh, N. C., played on through the season without telling of the trouble with his ear.

Although surgery was expected to hamper Wood's spring training, he will be ready for his final season next fall.

FLORIDA LOSES KOCSIS, 3 OTHERS

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 2.—(P)—The University of Florida publicity department reported tonight four varsity football players had resigned from the university.

They were listed as Frank Kocsis, Paul Eller, Vincent Daher and Pete Kozlosky.

Kocsis was alternate captain last season and took over the leadership of the team when Captain Jimmy Oxford was dropped from the squad.

"All holders of athletic scholarships, in company with any student receiving scholarship assistance, must meet requirements specified by the university committee on scholarship awards," the publicity department said, "and any who failed to meet the requirements could not be continued."

A full review can be made of the grades as officially issued by the university, it will not be known if there will be any further losses among members of the football squad for scholastic deficiencies.

ALL IN THE GAME

Jones in golf are incomparable figures. And any effort to mention someone else's efforts in connection with them is false and hollow. Their records stand for all to see.

And yet, in connection with tennis, Don Budge and Ellsworth Vines, who appear here tonight, are the best of the present day—and they certainly will do until a couple of better ones come along.

IT'S TOPS FOR ALL TIME.

Atlanta fans never saw Bill Tilden in his prime. He was still a great performer when he played here several years ago and astonished the gallery by allowing his long and nimble legs to cart him, in ten-league-boots strides, up the banks in making retrieves.

But he was past his prime then. There have been fine exhibitions in Atlanta in the past. Budge has appeared several times as a top-notch amateur. Vines has been here before both as pro and amateur.

Of all the matches of the past, however, none appears as attractive as tonight's at the city auditorium. Vines, at present, is the game's hardest hitter. Budge is the game's calmest player. Nothing disturbs the California Comet—not even the two-mile-a-minute cannonball services and smashes of his California contemporary.

There rightly has been a tremendous advance sale. The advance sale amounts to almost as much as the largest gate for any previous match here. Which means that seats will be at a premium at the match, although there are a number of good seats available.

The match is heartily recommended, not only to people who like tennis, but to other folks who admire skill in any line of endeavor at its best. This contest in the "world series" of professional tennis embraces all that—and more.

OLD "SAINT" NICK GALLOPS AGAIN.

Nick Cullop, who should be old enough by now to be somebody's granddaddy, will gallop again this spring. Old "Saint" Nick will play with the Houston Buffs, in the Texas league. Sacramento sold him to the Buffs. Injuries hampered him out in the Coast league last year.

Oldsters among the Atlanta fans will recall that Nick Cullop is the last fellow in the Southern league who could wallop home runs over the left-field stands with something akin to regularity.

And there are many fans, too, who remember the incident which cropped up as a result of bad blood between Atlanta and Memphis. Cullop came flying into home plate and Jumbo Barrett suffered a broken leg, which hastened the end of what promised to be a brilliant career.

A WORD ABOUT BECKMAN.

In running across some old averages, a feat by Wild Bill Beckman, a 20-game winner with the Crackers last season, stood out like a beacon on a stormy night.

It seems that Beckman, pitching for Houston, tied up in an 18-inning battle with Joe Vance, pitching for Dallas. Bill let the Steers down without a hit for 16 consecutive innings.

Came the 18th and Beckman started his own winning rally, singling and coming home on King's triple. Beckman thought a lot of his prowess as a batsman and last year had a wager with Red Evans, of New Orleans, that he'd out-hit him. Beckman paid off in midseason.

MEADE WINS FOUR.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(UP)—The Jockey Don Meade today dispersed reports that he had gone into a riding slump by booting home four winners at Hialeah Park to bring his total since the meeting opened January 11 to 40 winners.

GAME TONIGHT.

CANTON, Ga., Feb. 2.—The Canton High Greenies, on a south Georgia road trip, Friday night meet the Albany High Indians in Albany. The Indians hold a previous win over the Greenies.

Spring Shoes Make Feet Look Shorter

Top to bottom, or right to left, or clockwise: First, wing-tip in brown calf, with shorter vamp and shorter toe cap; second, a mud-guard effect, produced by a patented construction that has a strip of leather forming part of the welt; last, brown-calf wing-tip shoe with natural-shade crepe-rubber sole and enamel eyelets.

There's a Trend to Sports Types Too—This Also Appears in the New Hosiery for Men.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD,

Editor Men's Fashions.

The day of the big foot has passed. That doesn't mean that from now on your toes will turn in and start to grow back to your ankle. There will be no change in the foot itself. There is only a change in the shoe covering that foot. It is expressly designed this season not only for covering, for durability, for good looks—but for making your foot look smaller. These are pressing times on the international front—and we cannot spare a single gunboat.

The new spring shoes make your foot look shorter because the tip and the vamp are shorter. In other words, the end of the lace stay is a little closer to the toe, and the stitching of the toe cap is also closer to the toe. It doesn't affect the fit of the shoe at all—it's just a matter of design.

Greens in hosiery are stronger, to go with other accessories, such as ties and shirts and hats, that are included in the trend to green. The iridescent idea, as advanced by the popularity of gaudy dyes, has been transferred to socks, too.

TECH RALLIES TO WIN CLOSE, ROUGH CONTEST

Score Tied at Half, 8-8; Anderson, Hughes Top Jacket Scorers.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 2.—(AP) Georgia Tech came from behind in the final three minutes tonight and defeated South Carolina 29-25 in a close, rough basketball game.

Both teams were wild in the first half. Owens, substitute forward, kept the Gamecocks in the running with six points and the period ended 8-8.

South Carolina took the lead as the second half opened, and with Hyman sharp-shooting the Gamecocks ran up an eight-point lead. Haymons got Tech out of the hole with two long shots and Flynn put the Georgians ahead with a neat field goal. Tech's final two points came on free shots, one after the game ended.

CITY PREP TILTS ARE POSTPONED

The quarter-final round of the city prep basketball league, scheduled for tonight has been postponed indefinitely, due to a majority of the teams being out of the city.

G. M. A. plays at Spartanburg and follows with Duke's Freshmen Saturday night at Durham.

Commercial High plays Savannah High Saturday night at Savannah.

The schedule will end with the semi-final and final rounds next week, but due to the annual G. I. A. A. tournament slated for the first week in March, the postponed round will likely be played.

group of professionals and amateurs.

"The national open will be played in New York starting June 8," Yates remarked, "and if possible I hope I can compete in that tournament." He also hopes to attempt to qualify for the United States amateur. Beyond that his plans are indefinite.

In winning the British amateur crown, Yates had several tough matches. First he had to go 19 holes to beat a fellow Walker cup player, Johnny Fischer, and a belated rally gave him decision at the same distance over Hector Thomson. He was two down at one stage in the finals, but his steady firing and uncanny putting gave him the title through a 3-and-2 win over Cecil Ewing.

"What was your toughest match over there?" he was asked.

"The next one," he fired back without hesitation. "They're all tough in that league."

STRIB'S BOXING EQUIPMENT GIFT FOR PRISONERS

Widow Sends Gloves, Trunks to Tattall State Prison.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 2.—(AP) Boxing equipment of the late W. L. (Young) Stribling Jr. is available now to convicts for recreational workouts at the Tattall state prison.

The Georgia heavyweight, who knocked out 137 men in his ring career, died October 2, 1933, of injuries received in a motorcycle accident.

His widow sent gloves and trunks from her Macon (Ga.) home to R. B. (Speck) Hamilton, prison boxing instructor. With the gift went a letter, published in the February issue of the Tattall Tattler.

"I hope the men can use what I sent and really enjoy them," she wrote. "The big gloves (16-ounce) were part of Strib's regular training gloves. He used them for years. The small pair of old ones were used only in one of his fights. I can't recall just now which one, but I am sure it was an important one or I would not have kept them all this time."

"The trunks were some he ordered for use, but never did. I believe they are regulation New York state trunks, or were at the time. The opponent wore blue and purple ones, I believe."

"I hope the 10-ounce gloves can be used all right. I hated to get smaller gloves for fear one of you would be hurt. Should I come across any other equipment of Strib's that I can spare I will send it, too."

14 CONGRESSMEN TOUR CANAL ROUTE

Members of House Group Off on Florida Junket.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP) Fourteen members of the house rivers and harbors committee left by train late today to tour the route of the proposed Florida ship canal.

They were accompanied by Joseph H. McGinn, committee clerk; Lieutenant Colonel Brechon Somerville, Works Progress Administration in New York and former construction chief of the Florida waterway, and H. H. Buckman, consulting engineer for the canal authority.

Committee Chairman Mansfield, Democrat, Texas, was ill of gripe and did not make the trip. The congressmen were to return Monday.

RUSSELL TEAMS BEAT CLARKSTON

Russell High basketball teams won a double-header on Clarkston last night on the Russell court, the boys winning, 42-37, and girls, 39-23.

In the boys' game Davis, Russell forward, was high point man, with 23, while his teammates, McCoy and Dodd, had eight apiece. For the losers, Rainey had 14 and Johnson 11.

Scoring in the girls' game was led by Irvine, of Russell, with 22 and her teammate, Marwitz, with 11. Bradford, with 12, and Rollins, with 10, also scored.

The girls' victory was their 15th in 17 starts and boys' their 14th in 17.

Russell plays Newnan tonight in Newnan.

STAGEHAND MOVES.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Marshall Cassidy, assistant to the president of Hialeah park, said he had been advised today by Trainer Earl Sande that Maxwell Howard's Stagehand, last year's leading money-winner, would be brought here February 15.

BOWLING

Bowlers of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity were out for bigger and better scores as they rolled on the downtown drives Thursday afternoon. Freeman pacing the team with a 382 score and 156 game that topped the number one league in three and one game individual scores.

Teammate, Burr, turned in the runner-up single game of 154 and had a three-game series of 397 as the S. A. E. Central Presbyterian beat Goldsmith, 58-50, last night on the Central court. Few was outstanding for the Central, guarding well and scoring 14 points. R. Fleming led the losers with 24. The half-time score was 30-20, Central Presbyterian.

City Basketball

Kirkwood Gideons handed the Atlanta Triangles their first defeat last night as they won, 54-23.

The fine defensive play of Kennedy for the Gideons stood out. Heeion led the winners with 23 points. Shocky got 14 for the Triangles. The half-time score was 29-12.

The Gideons play Kirkwood Presbyterian Tuesday night in Decatur.

Central Presbyterian beat Goldsmith, 58-50, last night on the Central court. Few was outstanding for the Central, guarding well and scoring 14 points. R. Fleming led the losers with 24. The half-time score was 30-20, Central Presbyterian.

TURNER INDICTED ON HOLDUP COUNT

Augusta Prosecutor To Press for Death Penalty for Armed Robbery.

Tattall prison's electric chair swung more closely into the orbit of Forrest Turner, Georgia's current No. 1 bad man, with return of an indictment yesterday by the Richmond county grand jury charging armed robbery.

A holdup stand December of Murphy's news last in Augusta was laid to Turner after five witnesses appeared before the grand jury. Solicitor General George Hains announced he would press for the death penalty.

This was in accordance with the purpose of Police Chief C. J. Wilson, who commanded the descent on Turner's lonely cabin hideaway, nine miles from Augusta, in which Turner and a companion, Bryan Schwab, were captured at dawn Monday.

Chief Wilson, through witnesses summoned from 10 or more Georgia points, expected to establish a trail of burglaries and holdups, stretching across the state and into Florida, the work of the fugitive and the five convicts he captured January 3 from the Cumming public works camp.

POLICEMEN'S BRIBE TRIAL NEAR JURY

Two Arguments, Charge by Judge Remain.

Arguments of attorneys and a charge by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey were the only steps remaining last night in the trial of bribery charges against R. R. Davis and J. A. Bailey, policemen.

Yesterday was spent in completing the defense, hearing rebuttal witnesses and two addresses to the jury. E. E. Andrews, racket prosecutor, and William Schley Howard, defense attorney, made arguments.

Howard's speech was interrupted late in the day by adjournment until this morning. When he concludes, John Hudson, defense attorney, and Andrews will speak.

GEORGIAN SENTENCED IN EXTORTION ATTEMPT

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 2.—(AP) Hinton C. Hardison, 24-year-old Georgia CCC worker, who pleaded guilty to writing an extortion note to Shirley Temple, was sentenced today to five years in federal prison and placed on probation for 20 years.

Federal Judge James A. Fee took the action on the promise of influential persons of Tifton, Ga., Hardison's home, that they would take full responsibility for his future actions.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrested Hardison last fall after the small firm star received a demand for $10,000.

Dr. Charles Sturdevant told the court Hardison had a mentality of not more than 13 years.

AFI CHARTS FIGHT IN TEXTILE FIELD

New Charter for UTW Considered at Executive Council Meeting.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders indicated today they may intensify their rivalry with John L. Lewis' CIO this winter by establishing newly chartered unions in textiles, cement and flour milling.

The beginning of a campaign to organize textile workers, President William Green said today after a conference with the AFL executive council, may mean the issuance of a new charter to the old United Textile Workers' Union, expelled as a rebel a year ago for joining CIO's industrial union movement.

Labor men pointed out that the revival of the textile union would bring the AFL into another clash with CIO since the latter has made an extensive organizing effort in the industry through the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee.

ATLANTAN SEIZED UAW N. Y. RECORDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The anti-Homer Martin faction of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) today seized the records and furniture of the union's eastern regional office under a municipal court writ of replevin issued to Fred C. Peiper, of Atlanta, southern regional director.

Peiper said in an affidavit that he had been designated by the union's executive board to supersede Frank Tucci, eastern regional director and normal head of the office, who was "suspended" from the union executive board by the anti-Martin faction January 23. Tucci was absent when the seizure occurred.

DR. R. D. BEDINGER, OF ASHEVILLE

Dr. R. D. Bedinger, of Asheville, N. C., was named chairman, and Dr. James F. Hardee, of Fort Worth, Texas, vice chairman, at the first meeting of the new Home Mission Council of the Presbyterian church here yesterday. The council is composed of a representative of each of the 16 synods' home mission committees and four representatives of the general assembly's executive committee of home missions.

7 CIVIC GROUPS TO MEET ON MERGER

J. P. Allen, Frank Carter To Discuss Proposal.

Seven civic organizations of the DeKalb county part of Atlanta tonight will hear J. P. Allen and Frank Carter, leaders of the Citizens' One-Government League, discuss merger of Atlanta and Fulton county governments. The meeting will be held at the East Lake school with the East Lake Civic Club as host.

Announcement of the meeting was made at the North Side Improvement Club voted unanimously to work for the proposed merger.

Walter S. Dillon, president, said the organization had not retreated from its opposition to annexation to Atlanta, but that the members feel that a consolidated government would be advantageous.

They expressed the belief that this opposition was the reason that the house military appropriations subcommittee was called to the White House for a conference today

The committee discussed the technical aspects of the problem with President Roosevelt. As when he disclosed his foreign policy to the senate military affairs committee on Tuesday, Mr. Roosevelt pledged his visitors to secrecy. Representative Snyder, Democrat, Pennsylvania, chairman of the subcommittee, said it was "a very ordinary and friendly discussion of the situation," which included no broad outline of foreign policy.

JAMES H. WILSON, COAST PILOT, DIES

Was Captain of Government Tugboat on Retirement 12 Years Ago.

James Harrison Wilson, 71, who spent most of his life piloting boats along the coast of Georgia and northeast Florida, died Wednesday night at his home, 353 Clifton road, N. E.

Familiarly known as "Captain Jim," he was captain of "The Frank," government tugboat at Jacksonville, at the time of his retirement 12 years ago, and previously had served as first mate and captain of "The Osceola," a river boat operated by the Clyde Steamship Lines, for more than 25 years. He was a native of St. Mary's.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. G. W. Stephenson; a son, Lawrence C. Wilson; a sister, Mrs. Willie Reddick; a nephew, Willie Green, of Jacksonville, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Harry G. Poole by the Rev. K. Owen White. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

REPUBLICANS HIT ROOSEVELT ACTION

Manifesto of House Members Attacks Secrecy; Nazi Press Vitriolic.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Critics of President Roosevelt on both sides of the Atlantic had a field day today criticizing his recent actions tending to align the United States with Great Britain and France in rearmament against the dictator nations. To the controlled press of Germany and Rome he was "anti-Fascist Number One"—and "no longer the spokesman of his people." Domestic foes launched a fight against what they termed "secret and unneutral acts" likely to lead this country into war.

Nine Republicans on the house foreign affairs committee issued a manifesto declaring that the people, "irrespective of party, are opposed to being committed to any war program through secret diplomatic maneuver."

The statement was the latest development in a furious argument which began when it became known that the President had approved the sale of privately manufactured American warplanes to France as part of a definite policy of helping the democratic states of Europe to arm.

Informed congressional sources said opposition in a key congressional subcommittee was impeding major portions of President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defense program.

They expressed the belief that this opposition was the reason that the house military appropriations subcommittee was called to the White House for a conference today.

The committee discussed the technical aspects of the problem with President Roosevelt. As when he disclosed his foreign policy to the senate military affairs committee on Tuesday, Mr. Roosevelt pledged his visitors to secrecy. TARZAN AND THE ELEPHANT MEN No. 95

Unarmed except for a small dagger, Tarzan walked only toward the giant Hyak, who had the advantage of both spear and sword. Hyak came running to meet the wild-man, hoping to dispatch him quickly and get safely out of the arena before the lion could be loosed.

The men at the lion's cage were having difficulty in raising the door. The lion, nervous from his last encounter, was roaring and growling as he struck at the bars, trying to reach the beast's excitement and ferocity.

Now Hyak moved quickly, roared by the roar of the lion which was soon to be released. He held his spear in front of him, expecting to thrust it through the wild-man the moment he came within reach. There would be no boastful playing with his victim this time.

Then Tarzan did a strange thing, a seemingly foolish thing that left the spectators puzzled and Hyak confused. He stopped and calmly tucked his dagger into the cord that supported his loin-cloth. Then he came on with bare hands to meet the armed guard.

DIXON AIDES PUSH SALES TAX TODAY
Seek to Put Bill Through Senate Without Any Exemptions.
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Governor Frank M. Dixon's leaders marshaled forces tonight preparatory to what they said would be an attempt to put through the senate tomorrow a sales tax re-enactment bill shorn of exemptions written into it by the senate finance and taxation committee.
Representative Poag, of Great Falls, sponsored the measure to create the committee of nine—three senators, three representatives and three non-legislative gubernatorial appointees—for the tax survey.
The representatives also upheld a veto by former Governor Olin Johnston, who refused to sign a measure to make easier ejectment proceedings against tenants.
Representative Poag, of Great Falls, sponsored the measure to create the committee of nine—three senators, three representatives and three non-legislative gubernatorial appointees—for the tax survey.

SOUTH CAROLINA HOUSE BACKS TAX SURVEY
COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The house approved today another survey of the state's tax situation which would be carried on by a commission of private citizens and legislators.
The representatives also upheld a veto by former Governor Olin Johnston, who refused to sign a measure to make easier ejectment proceedings against tenants.
Representative Poag, of Great Falls, sponsored the measure to create the committee of nine—three senators, three representatives and three non-legislative gubernatorial appointees—for the tax survey.

WAFF-HOUR BILLS INTRODUCED IN N. C.
RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Simultaneous introduction of identical wage and hours bills in the house and senate today presaged a fight which may soon take the center of the legislative stage.
Sponsored by the State Department of Labor, the measures would provide for intrastate businesses a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour the first year and 40 cents after the seventh year, and a 44-hour maximum work week the first year with a 40-hour maximum after two years.

CONE STANDS SILENT ON CAPITOL WORK
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Governor Cone emphasized today that he had made no commitment for or against payment for completing the house of representatives' new chamber in time for the 1939 legislature.
He commented on a report that he had agreed in advance to approve a contract awarded yesterday by a special legislative committee.

"BANK NIGHT" TAX ASKED BY COOPER
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Striving to carry his economy program into the field of tax collection, Governor Prentice Cooper asked the legislature today to amend the 1937 general revenue bill to simplify the business privilege tax structure.
A source hitherto untapped—taxes in a schedule calling for 5 per cent of the gross receipts of establishments conducting this or any other type of lottery.
In the house two constitutional amendments, one lengthening the governor's term of office from two to four years and the other increasing the pay of legislators from $4 to $10 per day, were approved.

MONTANA MAKES DIVORCE BID
HELENA, Mont., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A bill designed to attract to Montana some of the divorce business now going to other states with short residence requirements was passed by the Montana house of representatives today, 54 to 38.
The bill would reduce the residence requirements for divorce to 30 days—the shortest of any state. It now goes to the senate.

Rivers Proclaims Sidney Lanier Day
Governor Rivers yesterday proclaimed Friday, February 3, "Sidney Lanier Day," in honor of the Georgia soldier-musician-poet-statesman. Lanier was born at Macon, February 3, 1842.
The proclamation called attention to "those noble southern women comprising the membership of the U. D. C., who have interested themselves 'in perpetuating the memory of this great Georgian.'"
CROSS-CONTINENT ROAD INTO GEORGIA URGED
Construction of a superhighway from Charleston, S. C., to Los Angeles, by way of Atlanta, was advocated yesterday by Lieutenant Governor J. B. Snider, of Mississippi, in a talk before the Arkansas state senate.
Snider, publisher of the Clarksdale, Miss., Register and Daily News, described the proposed route as "a strategic military highway through the southern tier of states," and declared its construction would bring "millions and millions of tourists."

3 Important Angles in Bidding To Feature Bridge Classes Today

How to Determine Meaning of Partner's Overall To Be Explained by Harold Sharpsteen at Constitution School of Contract Playing.

How to determine when partner's overall in opponent's bid means only first-round control, when it shows no losers in the adverse suit and when the bid means partner too, holds a legitimate biddable suit in the same trump as named by adversary, will be three important angles in modern contract bidding to be fully covered at today's sessions of The Constitution School of Bridge.

Classes, under the personal direction of Harold Sharpsteen, noted Culbertson system authority, will be held as usual in the ballroom of the Atlanta Woman's Club, lesson periods starting promptly at 10:30 this morning, 2:30 this afternoon and again at 8 o'clock tonight.

Among various types of overbids in opponent's suit to be explained today are:

Unconditionally game-forcing defensive overall by second hand.

Third-hand suit control bid.

Bidding opponent's suit in response to takeout doubles.

Lead-directing overbid in opponent's suit.

BRULATOUR ADMITS ANTI-FIREARM CHARGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(P)—Jules Brulatour, millionaire film manufacturer and husband of Hope Hampton, actress, pleaded guilty through his lawyer today to a charge of violating the anti-firearms law.

The three special sessions justices who received the plea from Max Steuer, Brulatour's attorney, set February 10 for sentencing. The maximum penalty is an indeterminate sentence ranging up to three years.

Brulatour was arrested in Lenox Hill hospital while recovering from a slight bullet wound in the neck. He said he shot himself accidentally while cleaning a pistol in his Park Avenue apartment.

ALDEN RITES HELD AT RECATUR HOME

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs Officiates at Services.

Funeral services for William Alden, 71, former newspaperman and civic leader, who died Wednesday morning at his home, 710 Sycamore street, Decatur, were conducted yesterday at the residence.

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, officiated, and burial was in Decatur cemetery under direction of A. S. Turner & Sons. Pythagoras Lodge No. 41, F. & A. M., had charge of services at the graveside. A native of Cincinnati, Mr. Alden was a direct descendant of Mayflower Pilgrims and for many years was connected with newspapers in Boston, Elmira, N. Y., and Augusta. He was at one time manager of the Atlanta office of the Southern Advertising Agency.
